Arabs to Give Warning of War Danger In Palestine

Issue Will Share Spotlight Today With U. S.-Soviet Fight Over Greece

Lake Success, N. Y., Sept. 28 (U.P.).—Palestine's Arabs will warn the United Nations General Assembly tomorrow to abandon all proposals for a ewish homeland in the Holy Land, or risk responsibility for a war in the Middle East.

The warning was expected tonight to highlight the Arab higher committee's opening statement to the special 55-nation Assembly committe which will try to decide between now and mid-November what to do about Britain's impending adandonment of the Palestine mandate and the Arab-Jewish conflict over Palestine's future.

Jamal Husseini, nephew of the notorious Grand Mufti of Jerusalem and the man chosen by the Arabs of Palestine to spearhead their drive for an independent Arabic Palestine, was slated to lay his case before the committee at 3 p. m. tomorrow.

Criticism of Britain Expected

Husseini was certain to score the United Nations Palestine Commission, which has recommended partitioning Palestine into Jewish and Arab states.

The Arab spokesman also was likely to rip into Britain for the uncertainties and ambiguities which marked the British announcement to the U. N. Assembly this week that it was abandoning its 25-year-old mandate over the Holy Land and would pull out completely if the Assembly did not achieve a settlement.

The expected Arab demand for early and complete Palestine independence was destined to share top billing at the busy Assembly headquarters tomorrow with another round in the angry American-Russian fight over Greece and a potentially explosive Security Council meeting.

Other Developments

As the world town meeting entered its third week, these were the developments:

1. American officials expressed confidence they already had won a solid majority of the 55 United Nations to their side in the fight to blame Albania, Bulgaria and Romania for interfering with Greece, and to install a long-range U. N. border watch in the Balkans despite Russia's Security Council veto. Russia, on the other hand, was certain to lose in its attempt to have the Assembly order American and British forces out of Greece and clamp controls on the American aid to the Greeks.

2. The going was tougher, however, for Secretary of State George C. Marshall's "little Assembly"

Expedition Seeks Egyptian ApeGone 35 Million Years

Cairo, Egypt, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—A University of California expedition has begun a search of desert country, 30 miles southwest of Cairo for fossils of propliopithecus—a type of ape which lived perhaps 35 million years ago.

The expedition is north of Birket el Kerun (Lake of Horns), where half a lower jaw attached teeth—the only previous trace of propliopithecus—were found about 40 years ago. Some scientists consider this earliest known ape might possibly be an ancestor of man.

The party has found fossils of turtles and crocodiles, and the jawbone and teeth of an animal about the size of a rhinoceros which Dr. Robert Denison, Dartmouth paleontologist, said probably was a compatriot of propliopithecus named arsinotherium.

Peasant Group Files Protest Against Soviet

Memorandum to U. N. Charges Interference With Four Countries

Lake Success, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—A 150-page memorandum accusing the Soviet Union of "interference" in Bulgaria, Romania, Hungary and Yugoslavia was submitted today to Oswaldo Aranha, president of the United Nations General Assembly, by the International Peasant Union.

Signatories to the memorandum were: Dr. George M. Dimitrov of the Bulgarian National Agrarian Union, Dr. Vladko Macek of the Croatian Peasant Party, Ferenc Nagy of the Hungarian Smallholders Party, Grigore N. Buzesti of the Romanian National Peasant Party and Dr. Milan Gavrilovic of the Serbian Agrarian Union.

The International Peasant Union spokesman said the organization is composed of "the free representatives of eastern Europe." He claimed its membership comprised "the democratic bloc of nations now under Communist control."

An accompanying statement issued by the union declared that "a formal motion to place the memorandum on the agenda of the present session of the General Assembly will be made by the delegates of one or more nations who have already expressed their agreement in principle."

When asked which U. N. members had expressed willingness to support the idea of presenting a formal motion to place the momorandum on the Assembly agende, a representative of the union said, "Many of the Latin-American nations and some of the European countries."

The memorandum contains a preamble which accuses the Soviet Union of failing to fulfill its pledges under the Yalta and Potsdam agreements, the Atlantic Charter and the Charter of the United Nations. It charges, among other things, that in Bulgaria, Romania, Hungary and Yugoslavia, "Soviet armed forces have been used for aggresively subversive political, economic and social ends."

Qavam Quits Iran Session Under Attack

Tehran, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Premier Ahmed Qavam stalked out of Parliament today under a stinging attack by an Azerbaijan deputy who assailed a proposed oil pact with the Russians as "the worst agreement in the last 100 years of Iranian history."

Emami Ahari of Azerbaijan declared the Iranian people would not agree to Soviet exploitation of the northern province "even if they are killed one by one."

Abbas Masoudi, Tehran deputy, who is publisher of the semi-official newspaper Ettelaat, threatened to present in the Majlis (Parliament) a bill calling for formation of a 100 per cent Iranian company for oil exploitation.

Qavam negotiated with the Russians in 1946—when Soviet troops were still in Azerbaijan—concerning formation of an Iranian-Soviet oil company to exploit oil possibilities in the province.

Arrests Reported

London, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—The Moscow radio said today that "the personnel of Soviet organizations" and other pro-Russian elements were being taken into custody in "wholesale arrests" in the northern Iranian Province of Azerbaijan.

Bucharest, Romania, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—King Mihai and Queen Mother Helen today received members of an American congressional group investigating the State Department's Office of Information facilities abroad.

The Senators and Representatives, who arrived here today by plane from Budapest, Hungary, were introduced individually to the King and Queen by U. S. Minister Rudolph F. Schoenfeld.

Wine and cake were served to the visitors during an informal chat, which lasted for an hour and a quarter.

The Congressmen will meet the Romanian Cabinet at an official luncheon which Schoenfeld will give tomorrow. Members of the group include:

Senators Alben W. Barkley (D., Ky.), Carl A. Hatch (D., N. Mex.), Bourke B. Hickenlooper (R., Iowa), H. Alexander Smith (R., N. J.).

Representatives Pete Jarman (D., Ala.), Walter H. Judd (R., Minn.), Mike Mansfield (D., Mont.), Karl E. Mundt (R., S. Dak.), Joseph L. Pfeifer (D., N. Y.) and Lawrence H. Smith (R., Wis.).

16 Albanians To Die as U. S., British 'Spies'

State Department Calls Conspiracy, Sabotage Charges Trumped Up

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, Sept. 28 (U.P.).—Sixteen Albanians were sentenced to death by a court at Tirana, Albania, today on charges of preparing an armed coup d'etat and spying for the United States and, Britain, it was announced here.

Four other defendants were sentenced to life, three to 20 years and one to 15 years' imprisonment.

Although the political background of all the defendants was never revealed, a Tass Russian News Agency dispatch reported earlier in the trial that several former members of the Albanian Parliament were among the 24 accused.

Three of those sentenced to death were ordered hanged and the 13 others shot. No date was set for carrying out the executions.

"U. S., Britain Aided Plot"

The official court announcement, made available simultaneously in Tirana and Belgrade, followed by five days the execution of Nicola Petkov, Bulgarian opposition leader, for treason.

During the trial, which began in Tirana September 5, the Albanian government alleged that the defendants planned to overthrow it with the aid and connivance of the United States and Britain; consorted with Anglo-American agents and supplied them with political, economic and military information; committed acts of sabotage "in preparation of suitable conditions for the landing of foreign armed forces on Albania territory."

(The State Department at Washington last Monday branded the charges against the defendants as "trumped up." It called the trial "an attempt of the Albanian regime to perpetuate itself by means of oppression and terrorization of

U. S. Buying Vast Lots of Foodstuffs

Program to Maintain Prices Continues In Face of Protests Over Living Costs

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

In the face of Nation-wide protest against the high cost of living the Government is steadily buying vast amounts of some farm products in order to maintain prices by removing them from the market.

Among the food products purchased so far this season are 7,746,011 sacks (100 pounds per sack) of white potatoes, 211 cars of 113,152 bushels of sweet potatoes, large quantities of canned tomatoes and tomato juice, 558,036 gallons of concentrated orange juice, 67,850 bushels of snap beans, 209 million pounds of dry, skim milk, and many other smaller purchases.

In addition the Government announced yesterday the purchase of 59,450 tons of dried fruit from California processors.

Other Offers Invited

It also announced that processors are being invited to submit offers on an additional 15,000 tons of dried prunes, 31,000 tons of raisins and 1750 tons of dried peaches.

The purchase included 26,450 tons of dried prunes, at prices of $160, $170 and $180 a ton, according to size. Thirty thousand tons of Thompson Seedless raisins were bought at prices ranging up to $162 a ton; 2000 tons of dried peaches at prices up to $239 a ton; and 1000 tons of dried apples at an average of $250.

According to the report of the Cabinet Food Committee to President Truman last week, the Government is considering substituting many of these purchases for wheat in this year's export program to needy countries abroad.

All these purchases are in addition to the relief purchases of grain (estimated by the Cabinet Food Committee at 400 million bushels of wheat and 70 million bushels of coarse grains), large quantities of dried beans and peas and vast amounts of cotton and cotton waste for export.

Cotton for Germany, Japan

The grain, beans and peas are for food supplies in food-deficit countries; the cotton to re-establish operation of textile mills in both Germany and Japan.

Most of the purchases are being made under the provisions of the price supports law. Most are being disposed of through what is known at the Department of Agriculture as "direct distribution."

"Direct distribution" includes the national school lunch program, and free distribution to charitable and Government State charitable and governmental (State, county and Federal) institutions.

Because of the summer school holidays most of the distribution so far has been for institutional use.

Disposition Is Limited

All purchases must be disposed of in channels where they will not interfere with regular markets or tend to lower prices. As an example, the tremendous amount of potatoes purchased was disposed of as follows:

Direct distribution, 819,676 sacks (100 pounds in sack).
Livestock feed, 518,424 sacks.
Dehydration (partly for export), 360,341 sacks.
To liquor distillers for manufacture into beverage and industrial alcohol, 2,363,366 sacks.
To export, (largely to Argentina), 1,695,936 sacks.
To millers for manufacture into potato flour, 9532 sacks.
To starch mills, 535,014 sacks.
For commercial storage, 1,685,-

Methodist Board Flays Halsey For Suspicion of Non-Drinker

Church Paper Says Remark on Lack of Trust Injures Navy

By The Associated Press

The Methodist Board of Temperance came up fighting yesterday at Admiral William F. (Bull) Halsey's remark that "as a general rule, I never trust a fighting man who doesn't smoke or drink."

"Shocking," said the board. "Admiral Halsey's unfortunate statement is exceedingly injurious to the Navy."

In their publication, Clipsheet, the Methodists declared:

"Many of the greatest military men the world has produced have been notably abstemious."

Among these nondrinkers, they said, were Sergeant York, Jimmy Doolittle, Robert E. Lee, Jeb Stuart and Stonewall Jackson, who "feared whisky more than bullets."

"Perhaps," said the board, "the admiral would not 'trust' these men."

Talks to Children

President In Surprise Church Visit

Children of the First Baptist Church got the surprise of their lives yesterday—an unexpected Sunday school lesson from President Truman.

The Chief Executive, who walked eight blocks to the church at 16th and O sts. nw., for the 9:45 a. m. service, readily responded to an invitation from the Rev. Edward Hughes Pruden to address the youngsters gathered in in front pews for "Rally Day" promotion exercises.

The children, wearing white mortarboards, bubbled with excitement as the President, flanked by Secret Service men, came down to the front of the church to speak to them.

In a three-minute talk, the President congratulated the children on their promotions, and reminded them that they were learning the moral principles that made America great.

He told them that the world's future was in their hands and that the roots of democracy lie in the training they receive in Sunday school and church.

After his talk, President Tru-

Chinese Police Stop Diplomats In 'Dance Raid'

Peiping, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—Armed Chinese police last night broke up dancing at the wedding of a Chinese general fresh from the battlefront and at a private all-foreign party at which half the guests were Americans, British and French of diplomatic status.

The police said they were enforcing the new government austerity regulatoins, which forbid public dancing.

Both parties were at the British-owned Wagons Lits Hotel. Protests to municipal officials resulted in resumption of dancing, but promptly at 11 p. m. the police returned and sent the orchestras home. That hour is the deadline for places of public amusement to close.

At the foreign party an Indian woman, apparently mistaken for a Chinese, was ordered by two pistol-packing policemen to go home. She left without argument, but the other foreign guests said they would report the incident to their embassies.

Taft Repeats Charges of CIO, Communist Tie

Says Newsmen Give GOP Best Break and Radio Speakers Worst

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

En Route to Spokane, Sept. 28. With parting charges that Communists dominate "a number of CIO unions," Senator Robert A. Taft tonight started back across the continent.

Taft modified earlier charges that about "half" of the CIO unions are Communist-run before hedge-hopping through Washington and Idaho for more speeches today.

In Portland, before train departure, Taft meanwhile:

1. Repeated his Corvallis, Oreg., offer to furnish "quite a long list of unions recognized generally by labor people as being Communist-dominated unions."

2. Welcomed a 1948 campaign debate of "past" foreign policy questions, but opposed creating "the impression of a division" by debating our current foreign course.

3. Described his own foreign policy position, outlined in Seattle last week, as an "augmentation" of what he said was his 1920 support of the League of Nations.

Rates Writers Anti-GOP-Bias

4. Said Republicans got "an even break" from Washington newspapermen generally but "less than an even break" from columnists. He charged that "two thirds of the radio comment is anti-Republican" and offered to back that up with a "list" back in Washington.

The Senate leader, nearing the end of a Far Western "trial run" on his undeclared Presidential candidacy, was queried by newsman on remarks to Oregon State College students at Corvallis, Oreg., last night.

Taft told the college forum the Political Action's Committee's program "was largely a Communist program, and that in turn was in part imposed upon some part of the Administration program.

"A number of CIO unions are Communist-dominated," he told the students in a question period. "There are maye a little less than half, but a very considerble number of them are considered by labor union leaders themselves to be Communist-dominated."

He told the group that Russia has "antagonized" so many Americans that communism now is "in recession" in this country.

Today he told newsmen it was perhaps a bit "strong" to say nearly half of the CIO unions are Com-

Crisis Funds To Be Sought At Truman's Parley Today

Emergency Abroad Complicated by Fear Of Further Boosting Food Prices at Home

By Marshall Andrews
Post Reporter

Congressional leaders will meet with President Truman today to ferret out 1.1 billion dollars for emergency aid to Europe without calling a special session.

They will be confronted with another face of the problem, equal in gravity to Western Europe's desperate need for food. That is how to help Europe without further boosting already high food prices at home short of the politically inexpedient course of rationing.

Both Democrats and Republicans who began gathering in Washington yesterday for today's conference said they had not been told in advance what Mr. Truman might propose. But leaders of both parties joined in expressing disbelief that a special session would be needed to find means of feeding non-Communist Europe until the $22,440,000,000 Marshall Plan could be put into effect.

Willing to Be Convinced

President Truman himself, who in the past had said he saw no need for calling Congress together before January, told a news conference last week he was willing to be convinced either way.

In some circles it was suggested that the conference might agree to calling congressional committees into session in November to study both stopgap aid and the full Marshall Plan. These committees could then have their reports ready for the regular session of Congress.

Whatever the President may have in mind, he will see that those members of Congress attending his meeting are thoroughly briefed on the problem and possible means of meeting it. Among advisers he will have at his side today will be Secretary of State Marshall, Secretary of Commerce Harriman and Secretary of Agriculture Anderson.

Suggestions Advanced

Among suggestions for meeting Europe's immediate needs which have gained currency here are these:

1. Informed approval by congressional leaders of a plan to use funds already appropriated for other purposes to render stopgap assistance. This approval would be coupled with a guarantee that such funds would be replaced by Congress after it meets in regular session.

2. Approval of use of Export-Import Bank funds or those of some similar agency to supply food and fuel to France, Italy and possibly England. The Export-Import Bank's charter limits use of its

Canterbury Dean Lauds Yugoslavia As 'Progressive

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, Sept. 28 (U.P.).—The Dean of Canterbury, Dr. Hewlett Johnson, today told a reporter from the Yugoslav official Tanjug news agency that Yugoslavia was "by far more progressive than other European countries" and his personal impression of Yugoslavia was "wonderful."

"It must be admitted your country enjoys a splendid cultural life of which the English have no idea," Dr. Johnson said in an interview at Skoplje. "In addition to this, your country has tremendous possibilities because in it exists great enthusiasm, a splendid spirit of work and brotherhood of peoples."

He conceded his opinion contradicted that of western newspapers. He would write of his visit when he returned to England, he said, but added the press probably would not publish much of it.

Dr. Johnson, called by his critics the "red" Dean of Canterbury, said "few" members of England's working class actually thought "the present Labor government would introduce certain social reforms."

The Washington Post Poll

Majority of Area Residents Want DST Again in 1948

The majority of Washingtonians, thinking over their summer experience, feel Washington should go on daylight saving time again next summer. Fast time ended at 2:01 a. m. yesterday.

Sixty-six per cent of the residents in this area favor pushing the clocks ahead next summer. A minority of 27 per cent hope the city will stick to standard time. The remainder are undecided.

Nearby residents of Maryland and Virginia are as much in favor of the extra hour of daylight as those living in the District.

Asked how they feel about daylight saving time after being on it for awhile, 60 per cent enthusiastically said they like it very much. An additional 25 per cent like it fairly well, and only 23 per cent don't like it at all. The rest were indifferent.

Almost a third of those who were definitely opposed to daylight saving before the clocks were changed this summer admit that they like it fairly well.

These findings of The Post Poll are based on personal interviews with a representative cross-section of adults living in Greater Washington.

Post Pollers asked:

"Now that we have been on daylight saving time for awhile, how do you feel about it? Would you say that you like it very much, like it some, or don't like it at all?"

They were also asked:

"Before it started, were you for or against having daylight saving time?"

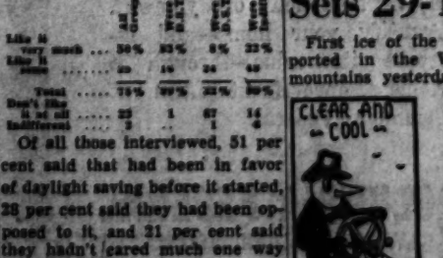
Replies were as follows:



Of those who believe it started
Like it very much
Like it some
Don't like it at all

Total
Like it very much ... 50% 83% 8% 22%

Total ..... 75% 99% 33% 62%
Don't like it at all ..... 23 1 67 14

Of all those interviewed, 51 per cent said that had been in favor of daylight saving before it started, 28 per cent said they had been opposed to it, and 21 per cent said they hadn't cared much one way or another.

Many of those who were indifferent at the beginning of the summer now find they like the extra daylight, and almost a third of those who were definitely opposed to the idea admit they like it at

To Show 'Solidarity'

Peasant Land Seizing Backed By 2 General Strikes in Italy

Rome, Sept. 28 (A.P.).—General strikes tied up two cities in Latium-Rome Province today, as peasants continued occupying untilled land in the Rome area.

Strike leaders said the walkouts in Civita Vecchia and Monte Rotondo were called to exhibit "solidarity" with peasants who were arrested last week as squatters.

Some municipal work was suspended in Tivoli and Colleferro, and chambers of labor in those towns threatened general strikes unless the peasants were released.

Many squatters began tilling fields they appropriated last week. Commenting on this, the Communist newspaper L'Unita declared: "For the first time the baronial fiefs have felt the plow." L'Unita predicted that a general strike might be called in Rome if the situation of the arrested peasants "is not clarified soon."

Other Rome newspapers said the interior ministry had given no indication it intended to release the squatters.

The land dispute in the Rome area followed a series of strikes throughout Italy which leaders of the Christian Democrat (Catholic) Party have attributed to a coordinated leftist drive to topple Premier Alcide de Gasperi's government.

There was no indication that a settlement was in sight in the strike of approximately 40,000

Ice in West Virginia

District Temperature of 42 Sets 29-Year Record for Date

First ice of the season was reported in the West Virginia mountains yesterday as the temperatures here struck a four-way tie for coolness.

The day's low was 42 at 6:14 a. m., making yesterday the coolest September in 29 years, and tying for the record September 28 low. September 28-lows of 42 were previously recorded here in 1918, 1897 and 1888.

The early morning cold was accompanied by additional frost in Maryland and Virginia.

Some warming up is expected today, with sunny skies and a northeasterly breeze. Low this morning was expected to be about 46 and the afternoon's high about 69, a few degrees higher than yesterday's 64-degree high at 2:45 p. m.

The frosts which killed many late crops in western Maryland and in Morgan, Jefferson and Berkeley Counties, W. Va., brought at least one benefit.

Farmers in the apple-growing sections of Virginia and West Virginia say the cold will help redden apples still remaining on trees.

Churchill's Group Hails Paris Report

United Europe Committee Declares It Directs Nations Along 'Only Road'

London, Sept. 28 (AP).—Winston Churchill's United Europe Committee today approved the 16-nation Marshall Plan report as directing Europe "along the only possible road to recovery." A statement signed by Churchill, former Premier Edouard Herriot of France, and Paul Ven Zeeland of Belgium, chairman of the European Economic League, said:

"We welcome the program of economic action proposed by the 16 nations in Paris, which directs Europe along the only possible road to recovery.

"It will, we trust, be regarded not simply as the means of obtaining temporary American aid, but rather as the first step in the unfolding of a much bolder plan for the progressive and enduring integration of the life and resources of our great continent. Permanent international machinery should be set up not only to carry out the measures of cooperation already approved, but to extend and develop them at every opportunity.

"Only by effective unity can we avert a rapid deterioration in the standard of living of all European peoples and check the mounting danger of war. If, as a result of Mr. Marshall's historic initiative, the foundation can be laid for the lasting collaboration of these 16 nations, we shall have made a notable advance toward the realization of a united Europe."

French Labor Leader Sees U. S. 'Trusts' Behind Plan

Paris, Sept. 28.—French working men, according to Benoit Frachon, Communist secretary general of the General Labor Federation, think that "the Marshall Plan" is principally a device to arrest "socialistic progress in Europe."

The spokesman for the French trade union that claims more than six million members said in an interview today that his organization was convinced that "the American trusts" were the moving force behind what has been called a plan to help Europe help herself.

Frachon suggested that American money was being passed around Europe even now to persuade trade unionists to accept "the reactionary policy" of the United States capitalists.

Government Continues to Buy Foodstuffs to Maintain Prices

Destroyed, due to bad condition, 356,626 sacks.

Disposal not yet reported, 2132 sacks.

The 211 carloads of sweet potatoes were all distributed for school lunches or to institutions.

Sweet potato purchases were all made in nearby Washington; 200 carloads in Virginia and 11 in Maryland.

A report will be made by the department tomorrow or Tuesday as to the volume of purchases of canned tomatoes and tomato juice. The total involved is said to approximate three million dollars. These are being distributed almost entirely through the school lunch program, and have been purchased largely from growers on the Eastern Shore of Maryland.

The 102 carloads (67,850 bushels) of snap beans are all for "direct distribution." These were all purchased in Virginia, North Carolina and Tennessee.

The 558,036 gallons of concentrated orange juice were bought to maintain citrus prices at 90 per cent of parity. The cost was about $2.50 a gallon, all for "direct distribution."

The dry, skim milk program has been in operation since last March. Distribution is mainly for export and school lunches.

Dried Prunes for Austria

In addition to these purchases the Commodity Credit Corporation of the department acted as agent recently for the purchase for the War Department of 1848 tons of dried prunes for relief feeding in Austria.

In addition a number of minor purchases have been made to eliminate local market disturbances. A purchase was recently made of topped beets in Pennsylvania, and another of carrots in the congressional district represented by Representative John Taber, Republican economy-minded chairman of the House Appropriations Committee.

Both purchases were made to maintain prices sagging because of local overproduction.

The price-support law was passed early in the war to stimulate production. It guaranteed to the farmer a fair price for his products in order to encourage him to grow more than he would under ordinary conditions and in the face of an ordinary market. In that respect it is considered similar to the guaranteed payments to various corporations to operate war industries for the Government. The law will expire at the end of next year.

Two Lists of Commodities

Two lists of commodities are covered. Both lists must be supported at 90 per cent of parity, except for cotton, which must be supported at 92½ per cent. The law does not limit the Secretary of Agriculture to that figure, however; it directs him to support the market at "not less" than 90 per cent.

The first list is known as "basic commodities." It includes wheat, cotton, corn, rice and peanuts. The second is known as "Steagall" of war emergency commodities—hogs, eggs, chickens, turkeys, milk and butter fats, dried peas, soybeans for oil, peanuts for oil, potatoes and sweet potatoes.

The Secretary of Agriculture has no choice but to support the market as provided in the law.

funds to enterprises which stimulate American activities, which might be interpreted to include the task of keeping Europe on its feet.

3. Use of the Government's farm price support authority to buy up surplus or plentiful foodstuffs through the Commodity Credit Corporation and resale to Europe at nominal cost. Such a program conceivably could be put into effect should congressional leaders sanction it at today's meeting.

4. An immediate aggressive grain purchase program to price wheat out of the market as a livestock feed, as suggested last week by the President's Foreign Aid Committee. As the committee also pointed out, any such program would further raise prices at home, requiring "a policy decision as to which horn of the dilemma to seize."

5. Some plan of voluntary rationing in conformity with Mr. Truman's "waste less" plea of last week.

A study of this last proposal is to be undertaken by a citizens committee under chairmanship of Charles Luckman of Cambridge, Mass., which hold its first meeting at the White House Wednesday.

Leaders of Congress who are expected to attend today's conference include Senators Vandenberg (R., Mich.), president of the Senate and chairman of its Foreign Relations Committee; White (R., Me.), majority leader; Bridges (R., N. H.), chairman of the Appropriations Committee; Connally (D., Tex.), ranking minority member of the Foreign Relations Committee.

Montgomery County Firemen's Association Elects Brown at Silver Jubilee Convention

Spencer J. H. Brown of Sandy Spring was elected president of the Montgomery County Association of Volunteer Firemen to succeed Henry Marschalk of Takoma Park at the closing session of the silver jubilee convention of the association held at Kensington, Md.

Brown nosed out Chief Joseph A. Giammatteo of Glen Echo by one vote in a 7 to 6 decision. The 13 departments of the association vote as units in the election. The election session continued from Saturday night until early yesterday.

Victor H. Bender of Silver Sring was elected unanimously as treasurer of the association. The new president will name a secretary within a few days, he said.

Application of the new Burtonsville Volunteer Fire Department was received and will be acted upon a tthe next meeting at 8 p. m. October 16 in the Damascus, Md., firehouse.

Judges Stedman Prescott of the Sixth Maryland Judicial Circuit was principal speaker at the banquet which preceded the business meeting. Introduced as one who had done much for firemen while he was a state senator, the judge said he felt the thanks should be given to the firemen who devote much of their time to the protection of the homes of the county.

Eugene J. C. Raney of Kensington, master of ceremonies, said that county firemen as volunteers who earn and buy their own equipment and do not have to "beg" the money from officials are "in a better position today to protect the people than in any other part of the world."

Fred L. Lutes, now president of the Suburban National Bank, who proposed the formation of the association 25 years ago, was introduced and said no one has had to apologize for the service given by county firemen.

The firemen paid tribute to Walter Lewis, who organized the Kensington department 25 years ago. Other speakers included Bradley C. Riggs, of Kensington; Charles Stallings of Pikesville, State association president, who urged participation in Fire Prevention Week starting October 5; Phil Ryan, of Mount Rainer, chairman of the nine-man committee on fire prevention named by Gov. W. Preston Lane; Chief J. W. Just, director of the Fire Extension Service at University of Maryland; State Senator Roy Tasco Davis; Juvenile Court Judge Alfred D. Noyes; County Commissioners Brooke Johns, Wesley I. Sauter and O. W. Youngblood; Rudolph A. Lofstrand, jr., member of the Maryland House of Delegates; Chief Howard Travis of Baltimore and Capt. Alfred Grunwell of the District of Columbia Fire Department.

A softball game between firemen of the east side against those from the west side of the county resulted in an 11-11 tie. The tug of war was won by Burtonsville and the prize for best appearing band in the parade was awarded to Rosedale Drum and Bugle Corps.

munist-run. He asked that he be quoted as saying "a number" of them are.

Some 2500 Oregon State students out for the corvallis forum. Dr. A. L. Strand, president of the college, said Taft wanted their questions "tough."

One red-shirted war veteran in the rear of the hall asked the Senator "Why he told union Labor leaders what political party they must belong to under the Taft-Hartley Act.

Taft replied that a union Labor leader can belong to any political party he wants under the Act, but unions can't have "special privileges" if the leaders are Communists or refuse to swear they were not.

"May I interrupt, Senator," the student shouted. "No, not until I have answered your question," said Taft. The student applauded. Taft finished by saying, "The quickest way to spread communism is through infiltration into union ranks."

The Ohio Republican, who has run gauntlets of pickets at nearly every stop on this trip, encountered none in Portland. Both couraged any demonstration here.

Taft, who has refrained from criticizing the AFL, meanwhile, was visited by more West Coast AFL spokesmen. In Santa Cruz and San Francisco he conferred with Harry Lundberg, head of the AFL Sailors' Union of the Pacific, who later negotiated a "hiring hall" contract with the shipowners. In Portland today he talked with another representative of the Sailors' Union and with Charles W. Robinson, attorney for the AFL Teamsters' Union, in separate conferences.

Griswold Cold To New Greek Aid Request

Athens, Sept. 28 (AP).—A reliable informant said today Dwight P. Griswold has informed Premier Themistokles Sophoulis that only the United States Congress can grant any increase in funds to Greece.

It was reported yesterday that Sophoulis planned to ask Griswold, head of the U. S. Air Mission, for an additional 100 million dollars to finance an increase in forces to combat guerillas.

The United States already has granted 300 million dollars for Greek aid, including military and civilian relief purposes.

In addition to increasing the size of the army, the Greek government wants to create a national guard to be used against the guerillas.

Official circles said a six million-dollar fund originally intended for the relief of servicemen's families would be sufficient to support a national guard force of 30,000 to 50,000 men for four months.

Last week R. L. Cochran, deputy chief of the U. S. Aid Mission, said an increase of nine million dollars in the military appropriation for Greece from funds already allotted would enable the Greek army to boost its total strength from 120,000 to 150,000. He added that it was unlikely the mission would approve funds for an additional force of 50,000

Sofia Regime Arrests Spies

Belgrade, Sept. 28 (UE).—The Yugoslav News Agency reported tonight that Tomcho Tanev, former Bulgarian opposition deputy, and two others were arrested by the Sofia regime on charges of espionage and "supplying information to a certain foreign power."

The names of the trio came up at the recent conspiracy trial of Nikola Petkov, opposition agrarian leader, who has since been executed over the protests of Britain and the United States.

Britain has warned that further arrests of opposition leaders in Bulgaria would be considered "a crime against European civilization" and violation of the peace treaty.

China Estimates Salt Tax

Nanking, Sept. 28 (AP).—The Chinese Finance Ministry announced today that the salt tax for this year would bring in 1,511,000,000,000 (trillion) dollars (about 24 million United States dollars), or 20 per cent of the government income.

How Deafened People Now Hear Clearly
Science has now made it possible for the deafened to hear faint sounds. It is a hearing device so small that it fits in the hand and enables thousands to enjoy sermons, music and friendly companionship. Accepted by the American Medical Association's Council on Physical Therapy. This device does not rquire separate battery pack, battery wire, case or garment to bulge or weigh you down. The tone is clear and powerful. So made that you can adjust it yourself to suit your hearing as your hearing changes. The makers of Beltone, Dept. 22, 1450 West 19th St., Chicago 8, Ill., are so proud of their achievement that they will gladly send free descriptive booklet and explain how you may get a full demonstration of this remarkable hearing device in your own home without risking a penny. ## Czech Red Points Moral Of Munich

Prague, Czechoslovakia, Sept. 28 (AP).—Czechoslovakian Communists chose the ninth anniversary of the Munich conference to remind the Western-minded people of this country today that their fate has been tied to Russia—and they had better keep it there.

Communist Premier Klement Gottwald made Munich the bogeyman of his central theme in an interview with the official Communist Party organ Rude Pravo on the eve of the day which all Czechoslovakia holds in bitter memory as its betrayal to the Nazis by the Western world.

"Tendencies similar to the policy of Munich are constantly growing," Gottwald cried, " . . . we see how some international circles represented mainly by American monopolists are trying to reconstruct German capitalism and with it German imperialism.

"Our main duty therefore is to guard and strengthen our alliance with the U. S. S. R. and other Slav states so that a repetition of Munich will become impossible."

Such political utterances were the only observance of the Munich settlement of Sept. 29, 1938, which laid the groundwork for Polish and Hungarian demands and the Nazi invasion on the following March 15.

16 Albanians To Die as Spies

Albanian liberal, patriotic, opposition elements."

The statement said the charges resulted from a visit to Albania of an informal American mission from May, 1945, to November, 1946, investigating the possibility of establishing diplomatic relations.)

Bequir Tchela, a defendant, allegedly told the court September 9 that he had been trained by American Intelligence agents for espionage and sabotage in Albania.

Tchela allegedly confessed reporting to American agents for the past 14 years and said he had attended meetings in the American Legation.

The court said that Tchela admitted attending an alleged American espionage school in Albania. He said he had been in contact with an American former spy school classmate in 1944 and had been told to make contact with American agents.

He was also reported to have said that American officials declared that communism threatened American interests in Albania.

Tchela signed a five-year contract with the "Balkan intelligence section" for Americans which guaranteed a salary of $100 monthly to be paid to the agent's family if he were arrested, it was alleged.

Another defendant, Salim Kokalari, "a member of the central committee of the conspiratorial organization . . . confessed his group maintained connections with Anglo-Americans," Yugoslav news dispatches reported during the trial.

technicians and administrative workers in northern Italy's textile industry.

This walkout, which has the support of the Communist-dominated General Confederation of Labor, began Wednesday. The technicians and administrative workers complained that they were improperly classified.

Threat to Close Mills

Mill owners have threatened to close the plants because of the danger of damage to machinery and materials by workers lacking direction from the technicians. The workers countered with a threat to seize the mills if the owners tried to close them.

Approximately 800,000 workers would be made idle if the mills were shut down. Various strikes now in progress have resulted in keeping 80,000 workers away from their jobs.

City employes in Naples struck Saturday because they had not been paid, but officials said they expected the matter to be adjusted tomorrow. Four thousand Rome hospital workers ended a "partial" strike Saturday when their demands were met for pay increases and shorter hours.

Freed Officer Says Captors Stressed 'Russia Is Strong'

Trieste, Sept. 28 (AP).—Lieut. William T. Van Atten, back from Yugoslav territory with two United States enlisted men after five days in captivity, said today he thought the Yugoslavs "handled us with kid gloves."

The other Americans were Pfc. Glen C. Meyer, Edgeley, N. Dak., and Pfc. Earl Hendricks, jr., of Arlington, Va. Van Atten is 24 and from East Orange, N. J.

"The Yugoslavs kept repeating to us that Russia was strong and kept pointing out pictures of Tito, Stalin and Lenin," he said. "They only questioned us formally once, when we first got to headquarters in Goriano."

He added that he was questioned in Italian concerning very general military matters while his two men were interrogated separately.

"We couldn't understand how they could be so belligerent out there on the line and then treat us so well once we were prisoners," the lieutenant continued.

Apologized for Food

"They gave us the same food they ate—coffee, soup, sauerkraut, and lots of bread and explained the food was not better because the army lived off the land and the land was poor."

Van Atten and the members of his patrol were captured at a disputed section of the new frontier between the Free Territory and Yugoslavia. He said he could not be certain whether he crossed the line.

"Even if we were over it," he continued, "it was only 5 or 6 feet."

While gray-clad Yugoslav soldiers encircled them, Van Atten related, a Yugoslav officer with whom he had talked several times before insisted they come for a short talk with his commander about the disputed line.

Van Atten said he felt he had no choice so asked if he might be allowed to go on horseback. The Yugoslav agreed and told Hendricks to go back for the horses which had been left on the Allied side of the line when Van Atten, Hendricks and Meyer approached the frontier afoot for a chat with the Yugoslav patrol.

Slavs Argued Politics

"The officer assured me we would be gone for only one hour," Van Atten said, "so I thought it was all right. I learned since we came back that they told Outpost 5 we were coming back right away.

"I don't really know why they kept us so long, except that a Yugoslav officer said it took a long time to get papers from Belgrade and they wanted the Americans to stay until they could talk with the major in command. (He never saw the major.)

"After the first interrogation at Goriano, they never once asked us anything of a military nature. They argued politics and seemed to think it was President Truman who created the Free Territory of Trieste.

"I told them this kind of treatment was crazy because we weren't fighting and they were our allies." He added that the Yugoslavs heartily agreed they were allies but insisted they had orders to pick up anyone who crossed the line.

Van Atten said that when he and his men were taken to the village of Vipaco, farther from the line, they saw an Italian Alpine Division soldier and an Italian carabiniere, apparently held under strict guard.

Choristers Sing Hymns in Sign Language

AT NOVEL SERVICE—Four members of the choir at St. Matthew's Lutheran Church for the Deaf of Jackson Heights, Long Island, N. ## Pepper Drops Opposition to European Aid

By the United Press

Senator Claude A. Pepper, stoutly denying that he has broken with Henry A. Wallace's foreign policy or abandoned his own "one world" fight, yesterday pledged his unconditional support to the Marshall Plan for rehabilitating non-Communist western Europe.

The Florida Democrat, who had campaigned against the plan from its inception as an ideological move to isolate Soviet Russia, said in an interview that he would support it now, regardless of its political implications, as an essential "first step" toward European reconstruction and world peace.

Last August 15, Pepper condemned the entire range of President Truman's foreign policy and particularly the Marshall Plan, which he charged was loaded with "insupportable conditions" aimed at aligning western Europe alongside the United States in opposition to Russia.

But he insited yesterday that there was no about-face in his new position. The blueprint submitted to the United States by the 16 Western European states, he said, showed no evidence of the political strings which he had feared this country intended attaching to its help.

He added that he would go along with the program, even if the Truman Administration should attach such strings later, solely on its economic merits.

Pepper said he has not given up his original thesis that postwar reconstruction should be handled through the United Nations. And he predicted ultimate failure for the Marshall Plan unless it leads quickly to a comparable program for all Europe, including the Russian-led eastern half of the continent which has refused to participate.

The Floridian said he looked for Henry Wallace to support the European reconstruction plan for the same economic, nonpolitical reasons, although the former Vice President has been even more outspoken than Pepper in condemning it.

Lutherans' First Missionary To Deaf in Area Is Installed

The Rev. Walter A. Westermann yesterday was installed as first Lutheran missionary to the deaf in this area.

A mixed congregation — some deaf mutes and others with normal faculties—attended the service at Trinity Lutheran Church, 4th and E sts. nw.

While members of the congregation sang hymns, the four members of St. Matthew's Lutheran Church for the Deaf, Jackson Heights, Long Island, interpreted the hymn in the sign language for the deaf mutes in the pews. The choristers, themselves, were deaf mutes. The Rev. Floyd Possehl, pastor of the Jackson Heights congregation, is not a deaf mute, but understands the sign language.

Pastor Possehl stood nearby as Dr. William F. Bruening, minister of Christ Lutheran Church here, preached a sermon. He interpreted the sermon in the sign language.

The offering will aid deaf and blind missions.

Among other participants in the service were Dr. Hugo Hennig, host pastor, and the Rev. William Schiebel, pastor of Mount Olivet Lutheran Church. Miss Ann Hoehler sang a solo, "Lord of the Living Harvest."

Mr. Westermann, who comes from Memphis, Tenn., will serve Lutheran deaf mutes and the blind in Washington, Baltimore, Frederick (Md.), Philadelphia and Knoxville, Tenn. He is a native of Bremen, Kans., and is 51 years old. Before going to Memphis, he served 11 years among the handicapped in Seattle, Wash.

Sen. Robertson Would Place European Aid on Cash Basis

In the future, America must pay for its aid to Europe out of current revenue and not with borrowed funds, Senator A. Willis Robertson (D., Va.) declared yesterday.

"Not even for ourselves, much less for others, do we dare provide aid from borrowed funds," Senator Robertson said in a talk over the Charles Parmer from Washington radio program on WEAM-Arlington, which originated yesterday in Harrisonburg, Va.

Observing that the European nations' program for self-help under the Marshall Plan has not been made public, the Senator said "I personally fear that when it is presented it will be disappointed.

"I likewise fear that even after reducing their demands for dollars by approximately 10 billion they have not duly considered the fact that five years of war left us as well as them with many unfilled needs and public and private debts of an unprecedented amount." Robertson, who is a member of the Senate Committee on Banking and Currency, said:

"These public and private debts now total $393,400,000,000, which is more than 90 per cent of the total estimated wealth of this Nation in 1930. In terms of depreciated dollars our national worth was estimated at 620 billion dollars last year, but no one knows how long prices will continue to be high and dollars to be cheap," he said.

The character of foreign aid must also be considered, he declared, so that the United States and other countries do not indulge "in a scramble for scarce items."

Pakistan Policy Blamed by India

New Delhi, Sept. 28 (AP).—J. A. Kripalani, Congress Party president, assailed today a reported appeal by Pakistan for outside aid in ending Hindu-Moslem warfare.

Kriplani said "the real solution of the whole ill lies in Pakistan itself." He said he meant that Pakistan had declared itself a religious state which would be a homeland for India's Moslems, and that the result was the uprising by Moslems against Sikh and Hindu minorities unwanted in Pakistan.

Kripalani contended this condition drew reprisals from riotous mobs in India.

A British official said in London yesterday an appeal for air had been made by Pakistan to Britain and the dominions, including India. A dispatch today from Karachi, capital of Pakistan, said the Moslem-dominated dominion had proposed the stationing of six United Nations observers each in Pakistan and India to report on the communal situation. The dispatch said India was reported to have rejected the proposal.

Daylight Saving Time a Success, Say Five Out of Six Here

Mrs. Ross Collins

"I've found daylight saving time really a great advantage because I live on a farm," declared Mrs. Rosa Collins of Annapolis.

"I think it was most successful and it gave me lots of time before dark after I left the office." Mrs. Collins works at the Veterans' Service Center at 1400 Pennsylvania ave. nw., and drives to Annapolis every night.

"I've always been for Daylight saving time, and would like very much to have it next year," she said.

W. K. Smith

W. K. Smith, 1400 M st., nw., said that the time change didn't make much difference to him. "I guess I was for it last spring," he said, "and I hope we will have it again next summer."

"I was glad to get the extra hour of sleep when we went back to Standard Time."

Smith explained that he works for the Navy Department in the Naval Ordnance Laboratory at White Oaks, and has a long way to drive after work. Daylight saving time gave him extra time to get things done.

Mrs. James Killilea

Mrs. James Killilea, 1438 Taylor, said she would rather have Daylight Savings, too, and hopes it will be returned next summer.

"It helps a lot with the baby," she explained. "It is better for him to get a few extra hours of summer sunshine."

Unlike some, who said the children wouldn't go to bed on time and were against Daylight, Mrs. Killilea said that she had not found any disadvantages in the summer experiment in fast time.

Burley Kane

Burley Kane, engineer of 2325 15th st. nw., said that he was glad to see the change back to standard time now that the days are growing shorter.

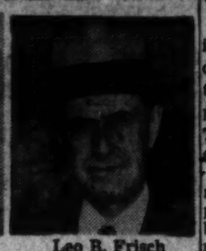
"I appreciate getting the hour back," he stated. "It will mean that I go to work at 6:30 every morning instead of 5:30."

"I certainly enjoyed daylight saving time while we had it, and want to go back on it next summer." Kane said he would like to see permanent legislation for fast time between April and September.

Rosina Howell

Differing sharply with most of those who enjoyed the change was Miss Rosina Howell, R. R. 1, Alexandria, "I don't like it at all," she declared emphatically, "it interferes with everything, especially traveling. It always gets me all mixed up!"

"I was not for trying it out last spring and I hope we don't have it next year. I can't see where it helps anyone, we still have the same number of hours in a day."



Leo B. Frisch

Leo B. Frisch, who lives at the YWCA and has been in Washington since the first of the year, was emphatically in favor of Daylight Savings.

"I'm in favor of it because it gives more daylight time during the summer for leisure. It doesn't affect me one way or the other, but it's an especially good thing for working people."

Frisch said he was in favor of fast time before he came to Washington from Chicago.

T. V. Soong Faces Quiz On Financial Acts

Nanking, Sept. 28 (AP).—Well-informed Chinese sources said today the Control Yuan would meet tomorrow to hear member complaints against the appointment of T. V. Soong as governor of Kwangtung Province.

The complainants said he should not have been appointed until disposition of an impeachment case brought against him several months ago, when he was premier, in connection with his financial transactions.

Trick Worked, With Slip, On 3000 Clocks

Eastern Daylight Time became just a memory yesterday as Washingtonians fell back into the swing of life on Eastern Standard Time.

The change didn't bother local transportation facilities, which have been on standard time all along, although there were a few schedule changes.

It did bother Western Union a bit, but not as much this year as it has in the past. Western Union has between three and four thousand clocks in Washington establishments, and this year it simply stopped them all at 1 a. m. Sunday morning, and kept them stopped for an hour.

This worked out very well except in a few cases where the clocks already were on standard time and, at the end of the clock-stopping period, were an hour slow.

Fred Neal, Western Union office manger, explained that the slow clocks were only about 1 per cent of the total number, however.

Daylight time was observed in some 650 communities in the United States and Canada, and in 19 foreign countries.

Time was, however, when there wasn't even Standard Time in the United States. Back in the early 1880s, the railroads, then spreading their networks over the Nation, pleaded for a uniform time-keeping system in order to end confusion in schedules because of purely "local" times. The Standard Time zones were established in 1883.

Hearing Booked For Today in Housbreaking

Preliminary hearing for Joseph A. Wagstaff, 23-year-old Navy veteran, accused of breaking into a Chevy Chase home September 16 and who was shot by Montgomery County police, is scheduled for this morning at Bethesda Police Court.

Wagstaff, free on $2000 bond, is under psychiatric care by his relatives, they said. The "shotgun" with which he threatened police turne dout to be a stick of wood.

He is alleged to have broken into 5512 Center st., Chevy Chase, and to have threatened to kill Mrs. Hewitt Griggs Robertson, the occupant, and her son, Hewitt Griggs Robertson, jr., 22, unless they revealed the whereabouts of "Ruth." The Ruth referred to later was found to be his sister. Police believe Wagstaff thought he was in his own home.

Charges against Wagstaff, who served a year in Las Vegas, Nev., in connection with a shooting there last year, are assaulting a policeman, housebreaking and destroying private property. H served four years in the Navy and two in the Coast Guard and had been given a medical discharge from the Navy.

Ecuador's Envoy To U. S. Resigns

Quito, Sept. 28 (AP).—The resignation of Dr. L. Neftali Ponce as Ecuadorean Ambassador to the United States was announced officially today.

least moderately well.

As a group, men are much more sold on setting the clock ahead. Fifty-seven per cent of the men like it very much as compared with 46 per cent of the women. Most enthusiastic supporters are the men between the ages of 30 and 44. Seventy-one per cent of them say they like it very much because they have more daylight after work to enjoy outdoor activities.

Washingtonians were then asked:

"Do you think Washington should go on daylight saving time next summer?"

They answered:

| | All Groups | Of those living in: District | Md. | Va. |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Favor Daylight Saving Next Summer | 66% | 67% | 63% | 68% |
| Opposed | 27 | 28 | 26 | 25 |
| Undecided | 7 | 5 | 11 | 7 |

Support for daylight saving time next summer is strong in all parts of the Washington area after actual experience with the plan.

Even some of the people who think Washington should set its clocks ahead next year have gripes. Twelve per cent of all residents complain that they lose sleep, they have to rise earlier because of their jobs, or their rooms don't cool off until later. Again, 12 per cent say the children can't get used to it, stay up later, object to going to sleep while it is still light. Another 10 per cent have other complaints to make.

But 70 per cent have no complaints at all. Many comment on the pleasant aspects of daylight saving. Sixteen per cent say they like the long evenings and extra daylight; 15 per cent say it gives them more time to garden and work outside; 18 per cent mention more time for sports and other outdoor recreation; 4 per cent (mostly men) state that they have more time with their children; and 2 per cent mysteriously say they just like to get up early in the morning.

Restaurant Association To Discuss Food Saving

How restaurants can cooperate in President Truman's food conservation program will be discussed by members of the Washington Restaurant Association at a meeting tonight at 8:30 at the Washington Gas Light Co. auditorium, 11th and H sts. nw.

Robert J. Wilson, executive secretary, said yesterday the problem of operating a restaurant successfully in the face of increased overhead and increased food costs would also be considered. He expects several hundred District proprietors to be present.

Palestine Plan Welcome Seen By Ex-Banker

The former manager of a Jerusalem bank, who arrived in this country only last month from Palestine, believes the people there will readily accept recommendations for partitioning of the Holy Land.

Frieden

Morris Frieden, a former Norfolk, Va., department store owner, and Mrs. Frieden are visiting Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Savage, 4803 Illinois ave. nw. Frieden, for 22 years before his retirement in 1944, managed the American-owned Palestine Mortgage and Savings Bank and its branches in Tel Aviv, Haife, Tiberius and Safed.

"The United Nations Palestine Committee's majority recommendations for partitioning are not all we wanted," he told The Washington Post last night in an interview, "but, under present conditions, the majority recommendations comprise the best possible solution."

The recommendations, made by the committee majority on August 30, call for partitioning of the Holy Land, formation there of an economic union between Jewish and Arabic states and the admission of 150,000 Jews during a two-year transitional period.

Palestine, Frieden said, can absorb 8000 to 10,000 immigrants a month, and he expressed a belief that continued immigration is an economic necessity on the ground that an influx of people both creates economic demand and, at the same time, provides means of increasing production.

He asserted the majority of Jews had "no quarrel with either the British or the Arabs."

The Arabs, the banker declared, with money Jews paid them for land, have found themselves with sufficient capital for the first time to buy farm machinery to cultivate more efficiently the land they retain. Jews also, he said, are teaching the Arabs scientific farming methods and providing them with such things as free medical services.

"The Jewish population pays about 75 per cent of the taxes, although getting only about 30 per cent of the bnefits of government," he said.

Frieden, 69, went to Palestine in 1921. He and Mrs. Frieden left there in July and are now en route to visit one of their sons, Herbert Frieden, a freshman at the University of California at Los Angeles. They have been in Norfolk visiting friends and arrived here Thursday to visit the Savages. Mrs. Frieden and Mrs. Savag are sisters.

Bobbies Break Up London Rally of Mosley Fascists

London, Sept. 28 (AP).—Police broke up a meeting of the British League of ex-Servicemen and Women tonight in the bomb-scarred East End of London.

The league, composed of self-styled followers of Sir Oswald Mosley, prewar leader of the now defunct British Union of Fascists, had scarcely begun its open-air meeting to mixed cheers and boos from a large crowd when the police moved in.

Fifty policemen on foot, aided by others on horseback, cleared the street amid shouts of "down with fascism" and "down with communism" from the crowd.

The New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Company

Notice of Exchange of Securities Under Plan of Reorganization

A. Securities Presently Exchangeable

Pursuant to the Consummation Order and Final Decree entered September 11, 1947, by the District Court of the United States for the District of Connecticut in proceedings under Section 77 of the Bankruptcy Act entitled "In the Matter of The New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Company, Debtor, No. 16562", the Supplemental Report and Order of the Interstate Commerce Commission of September 17, 1947, and the certificate made pursuant to said Consummation Order specifying 3:00 p. m. Eastern Daylight Saving Time September 18, 1947, as the consummation date thereunder (confirmed by order of the District Court entered September 23, 1947), each of which has been filed in the office of the Clerk of said Court, said Debtor has reorganized in accordance with the Plan of Reorganization confirmed by said Court on September 6, 1945, and it is expected that on and after October 14, 1947 the cash and new securities distributable pursuant to said Plan to the holders of the following securities will be ready for distribution thereunder. # Abrogate Oil Pacts, Iraqui Leader Urges Baghdad, Iraq, Sept. 28 (AP)—Senator Sadi Albassam said today the Arab states, "the save Palestine," must use twin weapons—abrogation of oil and economic concessions and boycott of British-American trade.

Albassam is an Iraqi delegate to next Saturday's meeting of the Arab League. He said Palestine would be the main subject of the meeting at Beirut. The delegates will discuss the secret resolutions adopted recently at Sofar, Lebanon, by representatives of the league.

"The league must now determine decisive actions by the Arab states to save Palestine," he said. "Effective use of abrogation of oil and economic concessions, and boycott of British-American trade are our best weapons which we can and must use at this stage."

He added he was against any "break in diplomatic relations" with foreign countries.

A spokesman for the Arab Office in London said last week the Arab states had agreed 15 months ago to make a "complete economic and cultural break" with Europe and America if the United Nations undertook to partition Palestine. He said the decision was adopted at a meeting of the Arab League states—Egypt, Syria, Lebanon, Trans-Jordan, Iraq, Saudi Arabia and Yemen—in June of last year).

Albassam declared the Arab states must "denounce" the British statement to the United Nations General Assembly last Friday, when Britain announced an intention to yield her League of Nations mandate over the Holy Land.

Jews Ready to Act

Jerusalem, Sept. 28.—David Ben Gurion, chairman of the executive committee of the Jewish Agency for Palestine, said today that if the British government withdraws, then the Jewish people on their own, will move to establish in Palestine an independent and sovereign state.

Gurion said the first step would be direct negotiation with the Arabs, and without putting it in so many words, he added that if negotiations should fail, then the Jewish answer would be force of arms. His actual words were: "There is no doubt that the Jewish people and especially Palestine Jewry, will be both willing and able themselves to implement the settlement on the above lines, and I trust that all the nations of good will will support them in carrying this out."

Two Refugee Ships Reported

Istanbul, Turkey, Sept. 28 (U.P.). Two Jewish refugee blockade runners reportedly carrying 3596 unauthorized immigrants for Palestine passed through the Dardanelles tonight after sailing out of the Soviet-controlled Black Sea port of Burgas in Bulgaria.

The two ships are the 1000-ton Northland, reportedly carrying 2045 refugees, and the 600-ton Padicah, with 1551 reported aboard.

plan. While the consensus was that Marshall ultimately would get Assembly approval of something resembling his original suggestions, Great Britain and France remained hesitant about the proposal. Their support is vital to the American idea, which is to get around the veto-bound U. N. Security Council by keeping the General Assembly in year-round session. The device would be a 55-nation "interim committee," a device blasted by Russia as a bald attempt to scrap the Security Council.

3. Diplomats speculated that Russia, fighting a losing battle to get Hungary, Bulgaria and Romania into the U. N. this year, might concede defeat at tomorrow's Security Council session and refrain from vetoing Italy's membership application in retaliation. Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko served notice Friday that Russia would not support Italy—or Finland—unless the three Soviet satellites of eastern Europe also were admitted. The western countries refused to budge, however, and were certain to rally their ever-present Council majority to block the three.

The week's schedule promised some sharp battles in other sectors of the General Assembly as well. In the social committee, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt of the United States delegation sparked a move to beat down a revived Russian attack on the handling of refugees in Europe and on the western powers' proposals on freedom of information.

The economic committee moved into a skirmish over the Marshall Plan. Poland threw the first stone yesterday by asking the Assembly to denounce the Marshall program and ask all U.N. members to conduct their economic reconstruction work through the U. N. Britain and France already have promised to answer Poland, and the United States was considered likely to add its own voice to the defense.

Raedy Case

Judge Ellen K. Raedy has in effect acknowledged for the second time her responsibility for the minor hit-and-run accident of last August 19. She has surrendered her driver's permit without protest after her right to operate a motor vehicle on the streets of Washington had been suspended by the Board of Revocation and Restoration of Motor Vehicle Operators' Permits. This action was taken, of course, as a result of her forfeiture of $200 collateral on a hit-and-run charge in preference to facing trial. In other words, she has twice permitted herself to be penalized for an offense which she emphatically contended that she did not commit.

Either one of two conclusions can be drawn from this set of facts. One is that Judge Raedy had nothing to do with the accident in question and that she told the truth when she said that she had lent her car to a friend and remained in her apartment on the evening when the accident occurred. But even this conclusion has now become gravely damaging to her reputation as a judge. It forces the assumption that a judge who has sat on the bench for many years has permitted a gross miscarriage of justice against herself without so much as raising her voice against it. We do not think that a judge who would take such a cynical attitude toward our judicial system—who would silently wink at the punishment of an innocent person, even though it be herself—is fit to serve in a judicial capacity.

In all probability, however, the untenable nature of the assumptions on which this first possible conclusion rests has driven a vast majority of District residents to the alternative conclusion about the case. If this is true, Judge Raedy stands convicted in the public mind of willful deception of the local authorities. Her silent acquiescence in the two penalties imposed upon her for this alleged offense will be regarded by many as an implicit confession, but a weak and uncandid confession that is utterly unworthy of a judge. In either event, Judge Raedy has undermined her standing. She will not be able to occupy the bench again without having people point to her as the judge who lied about her part in a hit-and-run accident. That is only another way of saying what we have said before: that her usefulness on the Municipal Bench has ended. The community awaits her resignation.

Taft's Social Program

Whatever may be the outcome of Senator Taft's tour on his presidential ambitions, it seems destined to have a salutary effect upon the next session of Congress. At Los Angeles he had hinted that enactment of his housing, health, welfare and social security program would have to await the election of a Republican President because of his distrust of President Truman's appointments. At Gearhart, Oreg., however, after there had been ample time for public reaction to that blunder to reach him, Mr. Taft outlined a program of social legislation for consideration at the next session of Congress. This is a reasonable attitude, and while the program itself may not be sufficiently spectacular to swing any great number of votes in the Ohioan's direction, it should afford a basis for practical legislation.

Senator Taft's program is essentially conservative from at least two different points of view. He would safeguard our Federal system of government by having Congress only finance social and educational projects, where necessary, leaving the actual administration to be carried out by the States and local communities. He recognizes also that, with expenses connected with the war, national defense and our gigantic debt running at a very large figure, outlays on welfare programs must be limited. He sets the limit roughly at a billion dollars a year. Spread out over low-rental housing, education aids, public health, unemployment insurance, old-age insurance and public assistance, that is a very modest sum. The important thing, however, is to get housing, education and health programs inaugurated on a sound basis. Expenditures can then be readily balanced between the national need and the resources available.

Each one of the Taft proposals will have to be considered, of course, on its merits, and some of them are likely to prove impracticable. An example is his suggestion that Federal aid be given to States and cities when the percentage of their population on relief exceeds a certain figure. This would greatly encourage the States to build up their relief rolls instead of trying to rehabilitate families so that they could support themselves. The program as a whole may also require Mr. Taft to adjust some other views to which he is committed. How, for example, could this program be financed, along with relief and rehabilitation for Europe and proper reduction of our mountainous debt, if taxes were to be cut in 1948? It seems to us, moreover, that if Senator Taft intends to sponsor domestic legislation of such scope and importance, he ought to be pressing for an extra session of Congress to dispose of the European-aid programs so that the regular session could be devoted largely to domestic problems and the enactment of appropriations bills.

It is a notable gain, however, to have a man of Senator Taft's influence taking an unequivocal stand in favor of Federal aid to provide "a free education for every child, health and hospital service for all those who cannot pay for it, minimum decent shelter for every family unable to attain it, subsistence relief for those unable to obtain jobs." We think that his party will have to stand with him on governmental acceptance of this responsibility or face a very serious handicap in the test of strength that 1948 will bring.

Unhappy Austria

At no time has there been any substantial expectation that the special Allied commission on the Austrian treaty would succeed in ironing out the differences between Russia and the United States as to what that treaty should contain. The more optimistic Austrians clung to the hope that some progress might be made, but even that slender thread has now been severed by the Russians' utter refusal to budge an inch from their unreasonable demands made at Moscow last March. David Ginsburg, the United States representative on the commission, has indicated nine points on which our Government has shown a willingness to compromise. But his overtures have encountered the typical Muscovite stone wall.

The latest controversy arose over an article in the proposed treaty by which the signatories would bind themselves to protect the political and economic independence and territorial integrity of Austria. Russia's spokesman not only resisted this proposal but also reiterated the claims of Yugoslavia to slices of Austrian soil. It may be assumed, moreover, that the Russians were speaking for themselves as well as for Yugoslavia. For if the Soviet demand for possession of all Nazi assets in Austria should be granted, control over a very large segment of Austria's economy would pass from Vienna to Moscow. Here, of course, is the main bone of contention: Austria could not give up as reparations all the industries that were either bought or stolen from her citizens by the Nazis without becoming a Russian colony. And the Kremlin is taking full advantage of that fact to keep its occupation forces in Austria, which carries with it the privilege of maintaining lines of communications through Romania and Hungary. This leaves poor Austria, the first victim of Nazi aggression, in a very unhappy position.

The British finally got around the other day to ending their state of war with Austria so as to ease some of the problems resulting from failure of the big powers to agree upon an Austrian treaty. No such action on the part of the United States is necessary, for this country never recognized Hitler's conquests and therefore was not at war with Austria. Normal diplomatic relations were established shortly after the end of the war. About all that can now be done apparently is to continue paying the cost of our occupation forces in Austria so as to relieve that liberated country of some portion of its unnatural burden.

Program For The Crisis

Our situation in the world today recalls the dark days of 1941.

The clock has been thrust back six tempestuous years of war and no-peace. A force with headquarters in Moscow is straining every nerve to keep the world disordered. It is waiting for one thing, and one thing only: to pick up Europe, either by overt aggression or at a sort of fire sale. That one thing is an American depression.

Time is overdue to meet this challenge at home and abroad. A war is as sure as tomorrow's sunset if we go into a slump, yet all the signs of a soaring inflation point to an eventual slump. A war is as sure as death if we continue to let Moscow's hirelings kick our citizens and our prestige around. We suggest that the President and the congressional leaders take stock of realities that must be plain enough to the men around the cracker barrel. Action is required, and no hesitation—just as it was when the Victory program was launched in mid-1941. Herewith is a positive program in this eleventh hour of our discontents.

1. Soviet Russia must be shown that we mean business at Trieste. There we are located on peace treaty business. Trieste has an international guard of 5000 Americans, 5000 British, 5000 dubious Yugoslavs. Since the war we have been sending minatory notes to Tito about his uncivilized behavior. Since the ratification of the peace treaty with Italy he has been trying to rush us off our feet in Trieste. So far he has failed. For the time being his thugs have adopted another tactic—that of kidnapping men who wear the uniform of the United States.

The three men who last week were dragged over the border established in the Italian peace treaty have now been released. Tito's bosses in the Politburo no doubt feel—as they did when they killed Petkov of Bulgaria—that in the eyes of the world, particularly the Balkan world, they have dealt us a humiliation. Depend upon it, we shall have to endure similar "incidents." Treaty infraction (President Truman is said to have 200 instances on his desk) is now being united to common banditry and anti-American propaganda in the Kremlin's strategy.

Tito would not have the temerity to violate his treaty pledges and affront our prestige without the say-so of Moscow. What do they say? Anybody with a grain of imagination can guess. It is to go the limit with America because America will not retaliate. The same message must have gone to Albania's Hoxha last year when the Albanians sowed the mines in Corfu Straits which wrecked British ships and drowned British sailors. The British didn't retaliate. They brought up the atrocity before the United Nations, and were confronted with a Soviet veto on United Nations action.

It is time to tell these two-bit barbarians to cut out the nonsense. Instead of sending notes (which are effective only with civilized powers, anyway) let us notify the United Nations that we intend to strengthen the Trieste garrison. Police action will cow the comic opera strutter in Belgrade just as effectively as it did last year after he shot down our pilots, and we sent over a bomber with a note insisting on reparation. Tito is a bully, and when you stand up to a bully, he comes off his high horse. In this case such a demonstration would call forth a message from Moscow telling Tito he had better cease and desist.

2. Such is the tempo of events that the crisis in western Europe has become immediate. The nations across the pond are in a condition of dry rot, and can be invigorated only with wheat and coal. It is unconscionable waste, let alone cruelty, to wait till people die in the streets and the shooting starts. If we could divert three quarters of a billion dollars now, the money will save billions later. We must as well get hold of the wheat, otherwise it will disappear down the mouths of American pigs.

3. An extra session should be called without delay to give the President the money and the powers. It will be time enough later to think of the Marshall Plan, which is a long-term scheme, depending for its success on tolerably fed and warmed workers. Surely the place of our legislators when the world and the economy are getting topsy turvy is back here in Washington.

A slump, the thing that Moscow is avowedly counting on, is invited by the prodigious rise in American prices, and this has been fomented by speculation. Right now the butcher, the baker, and the candlestick maker are dabbling in the commodity markets. It is common to be asked to buy grain, butter, eggs, even steel, for a "flyer." All you get is a piece of paper, and up goes the price of the things we eat, clothe ourselves with, depend upon for housing. In the last week there has been a halt in the price rise, but the halt will be merely a pause in an inevitable whirl if the markets are left to themselves.

What will happen, if this kind of thing goes on, is that wages will have to be raised, and we shall all be taken for a ride on the inflationary merry-go-round, the end of which is a dumping in the sawdust of the morning after and depression. For the Nation the payoff will be ruin and war. Accordingly the prescriptions should have one aim—to bring down prices and kill the inflation before we bleed to death.

4. For the duration of the crisis our exports must be channelled over Government desks. That is to say, existing export controls must be used rigidly. Without a doubt exports are a factor in putting up the prices paid by our housewives. The reason is that we are exporting scarce products, and prices are boosted when demand tops supply. Exports brought back under close control could then be directed where they are most essential in terms of saving Europe. There is waste in exports as in domestic consumption. It is foolish, for instance, to keep on exporting to rich Argentina the goods badly needed in starving Italy.

5. All import duties on scarce things at home should be taken off for the duration of the shortage, and punitive taxes on margarine should be lifted.

6. Introduce stiff margins on commodity exchange transactions, and otherwise end the speculation. Hedging on growing crops is legitimate. But the gambling in which every Tom, Dick and Harry is indulging in the necessities of life at a time of world need and of pinched American household budgets has become immoral.

7. Give the President allocation powers over materials, noncritical as well as critical. The grey market in steel could be eliminated by the use of the allocation power. The Administration hasn't got the powers over wheat, yet this is of prime importance in feeding the hungry.

The above steps would help to bring order back to an economy which is now in the first throes of inflation and which is misdirected in terms of world reconstruction. Our output from now on should be put where it rightfully belongs. Let us not let it be pulled this way and that by speculators battening on our free economy. The spiral must be arrested, in the interest of everybody but the Muscovite. If the present impotence is maintained after today's crucial meeting at the White House, America will have reneged on its destiny, and we shall assuredly suffer along with the foreigner.

Youngblood Resignation

I just saw the statement in The Washington Post of September 20, by Congressman Harold F. Youngblood that he will resign from the Subcommittee on Health and Education for the District of Columbia. As a resident and civic worker in Washington I am not surprised at the ruling on this restaurant case. But I do hope that Representative Youngblood will not resign from this committee. We need him and more men like him to clean up these bad conditions.

MRS. B. G. McILVEE.
Washington.

The spanking given Harold Youngblood, Representative from Detroit, by the editorial in The Washington Post of September 23 was well deserved. Mr. Youngblood has resigned from the District Committee because a local judge did not uphold him in his contention that a certain sandwich was tainted. Youngblood has two grievances; he was not supported; he thinks judges should be elected; then he says, grandly "I receive my pay for representing the people of Detroit—they send me down here to take care of their affairs."

Probably the unrepresented, voteless people of Washington pay a larger per cent of his wages than his district in Detroit. During the Constitutional Convention Gouverneur Morris lamented that while "the States had many representatives on the floor, few were to be deemed representatives of America," and James Wilson insisted that "the general Government is not an assemblage of States, but of individuals," who in due course would be known as Senators and Representatives of the United States.

Congress was not created to enable its members to get special concessions and local advantages, but that they should give whatever abilities they had to serve their entire country. Anyone so lacking in national consciousness and pride as not to realize that it is an honor to serve on the District Committee, doing their best to make this the finest, as it is said to be the most beautiful national capital in the world, should be promptly retired to private life as unworthy to represent loyal Americans.

ELLIS MEREDITH.
Washington.

"Another Victim"

I was sorry to notice the editorial "Another Victim" in the September 20 issued of The Washington Post. It indicates that your gun-shy editorial writer is not as broad-minded as we had hoped. "Another Victim" is at one and the same time a complete misstatement of fact and a most amazing statement of philosophy for the American citizen in such times as these.

The editorial says that "thousands of lives have been needlessly sacrificed because peaceful citizens like Mrs. Johnson have tried to defend themselves against hold-up men and housebreakers by flourishing pistols or trying to shoot it out." This statement is completely inaccurate and could honestly be made only by a person so ignorant of the facts that he should not attempt to write about the subject. A minute search of coronors' records would fail to show that thousands of householders and police combined have been killed in the past 30 years in this country in gun battles with the criminal element. On the other hand, a cursory survey of newspaper files would show that thousands of attempted hold-ups, burglaries and robberies had been foiled by armed, alert, properly trained citizens who had the courage to defend their persons and property. The files would also indicate many police commendations to such citizens.

I am perfectly amazed at the statement that "the best defense against personal injury lies in no defense." How in the world can any individual with such a jellyfish mentality and so spineless a character manage to hold a job in such an aggressive occupation as that of the American newspaper man? In America's present situation among the nations of the world, how can a newspaper as unquestionably patriotic as The Washington Post permit such a doctrine to be advocated in its columns?

Cures Not Palliatives

I think the capitalist system is good for something after all.

If big business is smart, it will support the Marshall Plan as a method of preventing overproduction and price declines. Capitalism produces surpluses which the people are unable to buy with the wages they earn, so if these surpluses can't be sold abroad they must be given away. We'd have a depression pretty quickly if we couldn't export.

The emphasis on "a cure and not merely a palliative" is encouraging. It would be even more encouraging to see the theory applied to some of our domestic problems. A cure for our crime problem might be a huge public housing program for low-income groups instead of the palliative of bigger and better prisons. Public ownership of monopolistic enterprise might end that problem and perhaps Government ownership would cure the problem of ruthless exploitation of our natural resources. If we really get enthusiastic over substituting cures for palliatives we might even eliminate restrictive covenants and other barriers to interracial harmony.

Reactionary Diplomacy

In The Washington Post of September 23, in his article entitled, "Wanted: A Political Instinct," Sumner Welles has contributed to a consideration of our national foreign relations the expert testimony of one of our ablest diplomats not, we regret, in active service.

It would seem that men everywhere upon a "sober second thought" are impressed with the conviction that our national Government in practice has discredited, in fact, discarded the democratic doctrine of the Atlantic Charter. We have attempted a plan in Greece which in principle is identical with what we assume to condemn in other parts of Europe where Russia has acted. We are giving military aid there to a royal Hitler regime to suppress the only aggressive movement for a real democracy, because it also has the aid of some Communist leaders.

If we mistake not, Mr. Welles has ably voiced the beliefs of most Americans not in the Administration's forces, when he writes: "Unless those now in charge of American foreign policy recognize the need for a basic change of attitude in their dealings with our democratic allies, we may well fail to achieve our national objectives."

Fiorello H. LaGuardia

For me who has followed closely the public life of the late Fiorello H. LaGuardia, it seems appropriate that all freedom loving men, of all races, creeds, colors, religious faiths, political affiliations or precious conditions of servitude, should for a second, bow in a word of prayer in gratitude for his good works and for his humanity to man.

His passing constitutes a grevious loss to all men of good will and to those who appreciate the dignity of the human soul.

Vishinsky's Accusations

Russian diplomat Vishinsky certainly weakened his case against American "warmongering" by attempting to put his finger on certain individuals.

The fact, apparent to every American who gets around, is that 90 per cent of the newspapers, magazines, radio commentators and on down the line to the lowliest parish priest from coast to coast have been stirring war hate against Russia ever since VJ-Day. We don't need Vishinsky to discover such an obvious situation for us.

Americans think they're on the spot now trying to feed most of Europe and at the same time keep the economy here at home on an even keel. What would that problem be like following World War III? Does anybody think that even if we destroy the Russian government, that thereby communism all over the world will cease to grow?

What we all should realize is that not all the oil in Arabia, nor even the dubious but much vaunted "liberty" which Americans enjoy of exploiting their fellow men, (which appears to be the chief reason for keeping capitalism) is worth the ultimate cost of the next war which many Russian haters look forward to so hopefully.

A lot of good Americans agree with Vishinsky on the warmongering charge.

PAUL BRAAG.
Washington.

It was a pleasant surprise to see such excellent letters in your columns of September 25. Especially well written, is the one by Arthur W. Erickson. There is too much truth in both articles for comfort for thoughtful Americans. Mr. Vishinsky's accusations, contain so much truth that it hurts like the lashing with a "cat-o'-nine-tails." If only the lashing could have fallen on the backs of those who have destroyed the long traditional friendship of Russia and the United States.

We would do well to remember at this time what General MacArthur said on February 23, 1942. "The world situation at the present time indicates that the hopes of civilization rest on the worthy banners of the courageous Russian Army. In no war have I observed such effective resistance to the heaviest blows of a hitherto undefeated enemy, followed by a smashing counterattack which is driving the enemy back to his own land. The scale and grandeur of the effort mark it as the greatest military achievement of all history. The second great realization was that the economy system of the Soviet Union was amazingly efficient and capable of sustaining mass production under unprecedented adverse conditions."

Russia fought on a 1000-mile front while we fumbled on an 80-mile front in Italy. Hoping for better Russian-American relations in the future.

Thank you for publishing what Messrs. Erickson and Robinson had the guts to say. If America will only take a fool's advice. She is my country, right or wrong, through thick and thin, and there is a lot of good here. But even though all of the wrangling be adjusted in the United Nations, the great powers, America and Russia, will never be able to do business until the two learn to love each other.

THE DIGNITY OF MAN: Studies in the Persistence of an Idea; by Herschel Baker. (Harvard University Press, $5.)

All doctrines of political liberty and of natural human rights must, I take it, derive in the long run from the notion that man as a genus possesses in his own nature some special worth that distinguishes him from all other creatures. But in what does this worthiness consist? For the ancient philosophers the answer was clear; it consists in his unique faculty of reason; and this association of humanism and rationalism has never since been lost. In other words the idea of the dignity of man has gained or suffered according to the relative importance assigned to the role of reason in human life; and Professor Baker has in this light undertaken to explore some of the vicissitudes of the humanist doctrine in the history of Western thought.

The Greek humanism found its formula in Socrates' dictum that knowledge and virtue are one. For the Greeks reason was the faculty which permitted man to exploit all his other faculties to the fullest advantage and so to increase in well being, which is another name for virtue. The decadence of Greek humanism, Professor Baker thinks, begins with the Stoics and Epicureans, who shifted the focus of speculation from questions of being to the more practical questions of ethics, and reaches its disintegration with the skeptics, who could suggest nothing better than "a retreat in good order before the conflicting claims of existence." The Greeks, however, apart from the Orphic religion, had no sense of innate sinfulness and consequently felt no need of salvation from it. In the early Christian church the emphasis was transferred from reason to faith as expressed in the famous paradox of Tertullian, certum est, quia impossibile est, and the breach of classical humanism and Christianity was, according to our professor, further widened by the doctrines of Grace and Original Sin, as elaborated in the theology of St. Augustine, with its emphasis on the corruption of human nature. Mediaeval scholasticism was, generally speaking, an effort to repair the breach, but it remained for St. Thomas Aquinas to accomplish the reconciliation of humanism and Christianity in his great synthesis of faith and reason and by his conception of God as pure intellect rather than pure will. St. Thomas, says our professor, "rescued man from the slough of impotence and depravity" in which the Augustinian theology had left him.

Thus from the natural theology of Aquinas it was only a step into that bright and sunlit optimism of the high Renaissance. This optimism, says Professor Baker, had its source in "a sense of security, the felt existence of order, pattern and sequence." Man could perceive in the universe the intricate but profoundly rational and harmonious handiwork of God and in himself God's masterpiece. "What a peece of work is a man; how noble in reason; how infinit in faculties, in form and mooving; how express and admirable in action; how like an Angell in apprehension; how like a God." A natural law, universal and permanent, prevailed in the moral as well as in the physical order. It was in short "the best of all possible worlds," and even in theology the emphasis was gradually shifted from eternity to the wonders of providence as reflected in the creation. Everything had its place and its purpose, "the stars in their course, the king on his throne, the peasant in his hut"; and in the exact center of this marvelous hierarchical universe was homo sapiens himself—"the beautie of the world; the paragon of animales." Professor Baker seems to consider the Protestant Reformation on the whole a retreat from humanism, as in Luther's doctrine of justification by faith and Calvin's doctrine of total depravity; but in another sense individualism in religion tended to enhance the importance of the human individual, as distinguished from the dignity of man as a universal. Thus Calvinism, quite against the intention of its author, served to nourish the growth of democratic egalitarianism, with its emphasis on the dignity of the individual; and the moral drawn here is that "if we lose one prop for human dignity we can always construct another."

However, the point that the professor is at most pains to labor, as his subtitle may suggest, is that at no time from Socrates to Milton was the tradition wholly broken. Augustinian Christianity, though it might despise man "for his congential infirmities," nevertheless dignified him with the hope of immortality. St. Augustine was after all Platonist of sorts, and for him knowledge was still the way to salvation—knowledge, through faith, "of the transcendent truth of God." It is on many accounts a pity that Professor Baker sees fit to end his story with the Reformation and that he makes no effort to trace the stages whereby the idea of human dignity has fallen to the present low estimate placed upon it in such contemporary phisosophies as positivism, Marxism and Freudianism. He does, however, suggest that the Thomistic rationalism contained within itself the seeds of the scientific naturalism that was eventually to dethrone it. Other factors, certainly, were the Copernican astronomy and the Cartesian method. The whole subsequent course of science, observes Professor Baker has been to destroy that sublime conception of human nature achieved by the men of the Renaissance; and barely more than a century after, Erasmus we find so great a scientist as Pascal seeking refuge in a kind of fideism.

Task For Liberals

A Communication

NOW THAT the broad outlines of the Paris Conference's work are before us it is the obligation of every progressive American to make sure that the State Department's forthcoming recommendations to Congress do not contain any subtle limitations upon the freedom of Europeans, on a national or regional basis, to own and operate through public authorities the facilities restored or erected by American loans. There is, so far as I know, no evidence that the Department has any such intention, but recalling its general record and particularly its inability to stop General Clay's sidetracking of British plans to take from the cartels the ownership of the Ruhr steel industry, the subject bears watching.

The second task for progressives is a more difficult one. To perform it we must not overlook the extent to which the deterioration of Europe's economic life has been due to economic nationalism, not only between the wars, but during the past two years. The U. S. has taken the position that Europe must achieve something closer to free trade among its member states if it is to rebuild. Prior to the Paris Conference the only definite move in this direction was the establishment of the customs union of Belgium, Holland, and Luxembourg. Now France has indicated a willingness to explore free trade possibilities with any nation that participated in the Paris Conference, and Italy has signified that she will meet France half way. The conference itself has set up a committee to survey the possibilities of an inclusive customs union.

This is all to the good. Economic, and ultimately political unity, is the only real solution to the problems of Europe. But economic unity cannot be achieved over so wide an area successfully, in this age, by a simple resort to Manchester economics. The problems of integrating the national economies of nations at very divergent levels of development is a complex one. Increased international planning and a greater degree of public ownership of mutually undertaken projects, are necessary if dreams of unity are to find acceptance among the peoples of Europe.

Nor can Europe accept American theories of world trade, as embodied in our International Trade Organization proposals, for a long time to come. That they are theoretically sound and ultimately desirable most Europeans cheerfully admit. But their immediate application would benefit only the United States, and would delay the recovery of every war-damaged nation. Our second task, then, is to make sure that American pressure for inter-European trade does not degenerate into a drive for the opening of the continent prematurely to the unplanned importation of American commodities not required in the job of rehabilitation, should deflationary tendencies set in in this country, before the fulfillment of the Marshall Plan.

LET US assume that both of these types of "jokers" are kept out of the Administration's recommendations to Congress. Then the obvious challenge to every enlightened American will be to secure the passage by Congress of the necessary appropriations.

Opposition will come from those narrow-minded politicians whose nationalism permits of no interest in European reconstruction. It will come, too, from alleged liberals such as Governor Stassen whose heart bleeds for the peoples of the world, but whose willingess to help them is conditioned by their willingness to declare a moratorium on social and economic reform for the duration of the loan program. Finally we shall certainly hear from those groups under the inspiration of the Communist Party who are fearful lest the Marshall Plan succeed and thereby lessen the prestige of the Comintern.

All of these elements which months ago determined to try to prevent the enactment of any significant European aid program will draw tremendous assistance from the now universally recognized relationship between inflated prices in this country and overseas demand. While exports play a subsidiary role to our own inflation in the upward movement of American prices, it cannot be denied that the relationship exists, and that the American people must either sacrifice needlessly if they are to have the Marshall Plan, or they must insist upon reimposing controls upon the home economy. What is more, it is doubtful if the Marshall Plan can succeed in its application if no controls are established in the United States.

The danger for Europe is that many American legislators, who would be willing to vote for Marshall Plan appropriations under the lash of anticommunism, if no curbing of capitalist excesses in the United States were involved, will not do so if the "price" of the Marshall Plan is a realistic program to stop inflation here. But if liberals do not insist upon such a program the money which is appropriated will not accomplish the objectives set forth by the Paris Conference. At best the Marshall Plan will become another item of postwar relief, at worst a horrible political boomerang, as disillusionment with America's ability to deliver the goods sets in.

So the most difficult task confronting us is that of working out and forcing through Congress an effective plan for controlling the prices and the flow of basic commodities. Such a plan would reestablish Government allocation powers, price controls on key items to roll them back at least to the June figures on which the Paris estimates are based, and the restoration of the excess profits tax.

I do not think that it is at all doctrinaire of me to point out that this dilemma presents to American capitalism and to its reactionary political spokesmen demonstrates the worldwide bankruptcy of the system. So obviously dead is capitalism in Europe that every intelligent spokesman of even the anti-Socialist forces admits that a high degree of planning is necessary to restore the economic health of the Old World. American capitalism, at the height of its productive powers, is incapable of providing the assistance that Europe needs, even though every national interest of this country demands that need be filled.

But the propaganda of our short-sighted ruling class has resulted in America's having a government with no power to meet the crisis—no power to direct the flow of materials available to force the investment of the war's surplus profits into those industries which, on the basis of world need, should be expanded. That there is no excess of productive capacity, and that there will be none even if the Marshall Plan succeeds in completely restoring European production is clear the moment one considers the needs of Asia and Latin America.

ONE CONCLUDING caution must be mentioned. Anticommunism and anti-Russian expansion are among the chief propaganda weapons of proponents of the Marshall Plan. This is true even of the attitude of the Socialist Party, which has long pointed out that the only way to stop totalitarianism is to make democracy work in the material interests of the common people. The great distinction between progressive and reactionary advocacy of a plan is that anticommunism is their principal reason for supporting it, while we would favor such a measure even if there was no such thing as totalitarian collectivism, harnessed to a leftist mythology and the power of an expanding imperialism, threatening European democracy. Therefore, we will judge the results of the plan on a somewhat different basis from the conservatives. We will judge them by their contribution to stable, autonomous commonwealths existing in a world at peace. The power politicians will assess the plan on the basis of its contribution to their moves in their great and dangerous game.

The Paris conferees recognized that western Europe cannot get back on its feet without increased trade with eastern Europe. When they assert their regret at the absence of those nations which the Kremlin prevented from attending they are entirely sincere. If any of our officials expect Europe to acquiesce in political moves sure to result in intensifying the split between eastern and western Europe they are mistaken. Damage that has been done will be recognized, and grim necessity has forced western Europe to proceed with the planning of its reconstruction in face of Russian dissent. But its leaders, including those from Great Britain, will do everything in their power to retain some sort of relationship with nations behind the Iron Curtain.

Any attempt on our part, through the United Nations or by various sorts of unilateral moves, to intensify the break between east and west will boomerang. Russian pressure on nations along the borders of her "security zone" will increase, the recovery of western Europe will be delayed, and peace itself will be threatened. To millions throughout the world the charge that the Marshall Plan was designed simply to assist America in her imperial ambitions would begin to have meaning. The resentment which the spokesmen of western Europe at Lake Success have voiced at Vishinsky's provocative demagoguery does not mean that they intend to follow even the best intentioned moves of the United States, if those moves lead toward a complete cleavage of Europe and toward war.

The Food Crisis

By Mark Sullivan

Its Double Aspect

THE COMING WEEK in Washington seems likely to be the dawning of realization of crisis, the actuality of crisis is already mid-forenoon. In Washington there is some feeling of puzzlement about the Administration's seeming lack of full comprehension and apparent reluctance to act adequately.

For this there could be a political reason, conscious or unconscious. Each of the two aspects of the crisis, domestic and foreign, entails discussion of a special session of Congress. President Truman seems reluctant to call one, and at this writing one seems not probable. The situation may change after Mr. Truman's Monday meeting with congressional leaders of both parties, chiefly those connected with the committees on Appropriations and Foreign Relations.

What brings to the proportions of crisis a condition that was already bad, is unexpected decrease of food in Europe, accompanied by shortage of grain crops in America. Last year, the second crop year following the war, production of food in war-torn European countries increased, and it was possible for them to get by, with aid that we were able to contribute. It was anticipated, reasonably, that this year, the third crop year following the war, would see still further increase of food production in Europe, thus reducing the amount needed from us. Actually, however, there has been a crop shortage in Europe and, added to that, shortage of grain crops in America.

WITH SHORTAGE of food as one crisis goes price of it as another. The grants our Government makes to Europe are in the form of dollars. But Europe does not eat dollars, it eats food—and with the dollars we grant to Europe food is bought in America. As the price of food goes up, the quantity that can be bought for Europe goes down.

This condition was already bad enough. Now it is doubly worsened. Europe must have yet more food, and the price is yet higher. Europe is doubly beset—by scarcity and high price. And we are doubly beset—by high prices and, while not scarcity, nevertheless the necessity for consuming less in order that Europe may get some of what we have.

As a further bedeviling complexity, the estimates heretofore made about the amounts of our grants to Europe, in terms of dollars, must be revised upward. A year or so ago a grant of a million dollars meant some half a million bushels of wheat. Today it means only some 400,000 bushels. This makes calculations cock-eyed.

A year ago last July we made a loan of 3¾ billion dollars to Britain, and it was expected to last that country for five years. But in little over a year, by last August, about 20 cents out of every dollar of the loan had evaporated, through increase of prices Britain had to pay for what she bought in America. When the loan was made, wheat was $1.87 a bushel. During the year following, the price went as high as $2.44 a bushel. Due to this and other serious costs, our loan was nearly exhausted in little over a year, and Britain was in critical need.

THE CONDITION threatens to throw out of gear our whole program of aid to Europe, as expressed in the Marshall Plan. Last June Secretary of State Marshall suggested that the European nations get together for a plan of mutual self-help; and suggested that, if and after this was done, America would give help. Sixteen European nations got together in Paris, and made acceptable plans for self-help. Then they got out their pencils to calculate the help they would need from us. They arrived at a figure of something over 16 billion dollars. But, in making their calculation, they used prices as they were in July. Since July prices have gone up some 10 per cent, and to that extent the estimate of need from us is out of date, it will need to be increased.

All this makes for Washington a double crisis. The foreign one goes to the heart of our whole problem, including our conflict with Russia. For a purpose of our aid to European countries is to save them collapse which would make them subject to threat of domination by Russia.

The domestic crisis is one of rising prices, especially of food, threat of inflation. The Administration proposes that America, by voluntary action, reduce consumption of food, expressed as a slogan, "Waste Less." This is sound, as a means of increasing the quantity of food we can spare for Europe. But few competent judges think that this will be enough to cure, or even seriously affect, the problem of rising prices and threat of inflation.

Where Are Our Guts?

EN ROUTE, ROME TO PARIS, Sept. 28.—Through the train windows the sun-warmed, always various Italian countryside, green and gold and silvery olive with the crops that climb to the very hilltops, unrolls before the eye. Within the car, a large Italian family lunches with cries of pleasure on bread, a little cheap wine and a slab of cheese—a luxury meal for all but the very rich in Italy. Yet the traveler, moving onward from one center of the world crisis to another, can think only of a single question: "Have we in the United States lost all the qualities that made us great?"

IN CONNECTION with this question, some things stick in the mind like burrs. There is, for example, the history of Premier de Gasperi's appeal to President Truman.

About a month ago, this unpretentious, rather solemn man, who has survived without despair two wars and the dark Fascist years between them, began to despair at last. De Gasperi's government, boldly free of Communists, (at the suggestion of the State Department) had been squarely based on the hope of American aid. No aid was forthcoming. The end of Italy's resources was clearly in sight in a few weeks. Accordingly, De Gasperi addressed to the White House a personal appeal, speaking as one head of state to another, and laying before the President all the grim facts. The appeal was presented by Ambassador Tarchiani, who was referred to the State Department.

At the State Department, Tarchiani met with kindly sympathy and the suggestion that he ask Secretary of the Treasury John Snyder for aid. Of course, as any one vaguely familiar with Washington would certainly have anticipated, Tarchiani found Snyder frozen into the voluble but obstinate immobility which is customary at the Treasury.

OR THERE is the episode of the visiting congressional delegation which invaded Rome under the brilliant leadership of Representative John Taber. One of Taber's colleagues, after hearing that the onset of starvation might drive the Italian people into communism, remarked weightily that "what they need here is guns not bread." Representative Taber was not so realistic as to propose a general massacre of the inconveniently hungry poor. His solution, offered at the top of his voice as usual, to a member of the Italian Cabinet, was that the De Gasperi government borrow some money from the New York banks.

As his proposal indicates, Representative Taber at least has the excuse of never having learned that this is the twentieth century. Secretary of Agriculture Clinton Anderson has no such excuse. Yet Anderson has just complacently informed a world that has been hungry for eight years and is now in actual danger of something approaching general famine, that the rich and well fed United States have to reduce food exports in this time of greatest need.

If Secretary Anderson could see beyond the next election, he would tell the American people something a trifle more complicated. He would say: "We can of course reduce food exports in the hope of lowering the home price level. It may well work. But before we do so, every one in the country should realize that the lowest price will be the hideous catastrophe of another war, and that quite possibly the very death of freedom in the world will be included in our little bill from fate."

IT IS NOT alone the dollars — so carefully guarded by Representative Taber—that are involved in the present crisis. Food is also desperately important. Most Italians are even now living on a meal and a half a day, of which the full meal consists of the half pound bread ration.

This bread ration is now in danger of being cut, not merely because the Italian government cannot pay for wheat, but also because Secretary Anderson will not make wheat available, very briefly, the Italian bread grain deficit until next spring's harvest amounts to about 2,800,000 tons. Of this, at least two million tons must come from the United States. Thus far Secretary Anderson has insisted that Italy can have only about half her minimum needs of wheat. If Anderson does not change his mind, next spring is likely to see a Communist regime installed at Rome. And the food shortage equally threatens France, western Germany and the United Kingdom.

Nor are bread and dollars the end of the story, either. The well authenticated reports of Soviet and satellite forces massing in the Balkans indicate that the hand of the United States is also about to be called in Greece. In the American hand are three out of four aces—the only Soviet ace is the power to act. On the table on the American side, are three-quarters of the chips—it is in that proportion that the resources of the United States exceed the resources of the Soviet Union. Shall we lose the hand and the game from sheer political paralysis? Or have we still got the stuff of the Americans of the past, who not seldom bet their bottom dollars on what seemed like busted flushes, and came out of the game with a continent to leave to us, their more fortunate heirs?

CIO Opens Attack on State Antiunion Laws in Florida

By the United Press

The CIO, already engaged in a bitter fight against the Federal Taft-Hartley law, yesterday opened an attack on State "antiunion" legislation by seeking to overthrow Florida's famed "right to work" amendment which bans the closed shop and other union security agreements.

CIO General Counsel Lee Pressman said union attorneys will ask the Jacksonville (Fla.) Circuit Court Tuesday for permission to file briefs in a case involving the State's 1944 law prohibiting any curbs on a person's right to work.

Pressman said the Florida case may prove a test of the constitutionality of laws passed by 11 other States restricting union security. The Labor Department reported, however, that, in 1947 alone, 30 States enacted legislation to restrict union activity, and Pressman left the door open for action against all of them.

Similar action was promised by the AFL, whose associate general counsel, Herbert Thatcher, said his organization will "test the constitutionality of all 30 laws as cases arise and prosecution begins."

The AFL has intervened in a Florida case involving the closed shop ban, but the United States Supreme Court has sent it back to the State courts. AFL officials were said to feel that the CIO has a better chance of success in its move.

The Florida case involves five employes of the Merrill-Stevens Dry Dock Co., Jacksonville. They were ousted from the Marine and Shipbuilding Workers Union (CIO) for failure to pay dues under a maintenance of membership agreement in the union's contract with the company.

The case was sent to arbitration when the company refused to fire the men and the arbitrator ordered them dismissed. The employes then filed suit under the "right to work" amendment to prevent the union from forcing the company to fire them.

Gen. De Gaulle 'Rally' Wins at First Election

Bayeux, France, Sept. 28 (AP).—Gen. Charles de Gaulle's "French People's Rally," which decided only a month ago to enter party politics, won one of its first ballot-box victories today when M. Destors was elected councillor general for the district of Isigny-sur-Mer.

The rally candidate received 2438 votes to 255 for his Communist opponent.

De Gaulle founded the rally last April as an organization to reform the French constitution by increasing the power of the executive. The party intends to enter full tickets in the nation-wide municipal elections next month.

Church Board Assails Halsey

president of the board.

In San Francisco, Halsey, who has retired from the Navy, said he had "no comment."

The whole thing began with a series in the Saturday Evening Post. It was written by Halsey in collaboration with Lieut. Comdr. J. Bryan 3d.

In the first article, Bryan says of Halsey:

"Occasionally he takes a beer or martini but his staple drink is Scotch whisky and plain water. He has said, 'there are exceptions, of course, but as a general rule, I never trust a fighting man who doesn't smoke or drink.'"

Halsey wrote that he never has "been convinced of the wisdom" of the order that barred liquor from Navy ships.

"To a man who has just had a tense, hazardous flight or a wet watch," said Halsey, "there is no substitute for a tot of sound spirits, as the Royal Navy well knows."

Bourbon for Pilots

Because of this conviction, said Halsey, he ordered 100 gallons of bourbon taken on for his pilots.

"I don't remember," he said, "if it ever was approved officially."

This decision by Halsey, the Methodists said, was "an astonishing breach of Navy discipline." It called whisky a "habit-forming, irritant, anesthetic drug."

"In view of Admiral Halsey's published statements as to his habits and actions . . ." said the board, "it becomes entirely proper to discuss the possible effects of his attitude toward alcohol upon the discharge of his duties in a place of enormous responsibility.

"Lest there be any misunderstanding, let us say now, that if Admiral Halsey has ever in his life been intoxicated, we do not know it."

The "Clipsheet" said there had been "widespread, although behind-the-hand criticism" of Halsey's strategy as commander of the Third Fleet in the battle of Leyte. It said that Halsey decided to leave San Bernardino unguarded and to take his fleet northward, "exactly what the Japanese wanted him to do."

For all they know, the Methodists continued, Halsey was drinking nothing stronger than coffee at the time.

"We do know," they continued, "that the man who was tricked into doing what the Japanese wanted him to do was not the man who so accurately and brilliantly assessed the situation when he advised the immediate invasion of Leyte, who conceived the sweep of the China Sea, who executed the devastating strikes on the Philippines and the approaches to the Philippines."

Speaking generally, the article added: "Alcohol is a deadly menace to the country's safety, whether it is in the brain of admiral, general, or diplomat."

The piece wound up with a quote from Proverbs 31:4:

"It is not for kings, O Lemuel, it is not for kings to drink wine; nor for princes strong drink."

Truman Pays Church Visit

man returned to his pew in the center of the church to hear Dr. Pruden preach. The sermon, "A Venture in Faith," was a stewardship message in which Dr. Pruden spoke about the "Belmont Plan," through which members give 10 per cent of their income to the church.

President Walks Back

The President, who came to the church alone, walked back to the White House after the service.

Dr. Pruden reported that the President, a Baptist, said he liked to come to First Church, organized in 1802, because people treated him the way he liked to be treated.

"He meant that we try to accept him as a worshiper and not make a special occasion of his attendance," the pastor explained.

Dr. Pruden said that when he asked the President to address the children, Mr. Truman said he would be glad to, because he was "crazy about children."

World Prayers Asked for Peace

Springfield, Mass., Sept. 28 (AP).—Representatives of British and American Methodism tonight called for the united prayers of all Christians for world security.

As the world Methodist conference ended its sixth day, Dr. Lynn Harold Hough, former dean of Drew Theological Seminary, Madison, N. J., told 500 delegates from both hemispheres:

"In a world which is tragically falling apart, the Christian church has the opportunity to provide the cemet which will hold human beings together."

U. S. Reports Sale Of Dresses Down

By The Associated Press

The Commerce Department last night reported a slowdown in the buying of women's clothing. It made no attempt to weigh effects of reported resistance among women to the new lower hemlines or current prices.

The slowdown was noted in a retail store sales at $8,820,000,000.

While that total was 254 million dollars above July, women's clothing and accessories showed a decline of 8 per cent in August, compared with July. Clothing store sales generally were 3 per cent below July and at a low point for this year.

KING FOR TODAY

—and Tomorrow and Tomorrow

WHAT's it like — parked here behind the wheel of this gorgeous style-pacer, with the sun smiling down, the road ribboning by, the whole world passing in pleasant review?

Well —

Maybe you've sat on a headland over the sea where you're one with the sky and the clouds and the breeze. There's a lot of that when you travel in this Buick.

Or maybe you've known the thrill of lifting a plane off the ground, and felt your spirits soar to the surge of singing power perfectly at your command.

There's much of that, too, in the eager answer of the eight big Fireball cylinders under your Buick's bonnet.

Maybe you've cruised quietly through calm waters, relaxing to the lift and swell of a truly buoyant ride — there's more than a touch of that in the way this beauty's all-coil springing floats you over the stretching miles.

There is mastery here of time and of distance. There's the steadiness of ample roadweight, and the pleasant knowledge that wherever you go you are carrying the banner of tomorrow's automobile styling.

There's a big bang in the extra conveniences you enjoy here — a front seat that adjusts itself to your comfort at a finger-touch, door windows that roll up and down at a button's command, a top that rises against changing weather at your pressure on a handy control.

Here are all the pleasures of motoring in measure to make you king for today and a thousand tomorrows — so why wait longer to get your name in for one?

Take our tip that when your Buick Convertible arrives it will be much, much more than the most you expect — and get a firm order in, whether or not you have a car to trade.

White sidewall tires, as illustrated, available at extra cost.

Board Named To Map More Security Aid

By The Associated Press

Senator Millikin (R., Colo.) yesterday named an advisory council of 17 which will study proposals for expanding Social Security benefits beyond the 42 million persons now covered.

Stettinius

Millikin, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, said Edward R. Stettinius, jr., former Secretary of State, will be chairman. The group will make recommendations on "coverage, benefits and taxes" under the vast program.

Stettinius, who is rector of the University of Virginia, was asked to assemble the council "at the earliest practicable date" to "survey the existing programs under the Social Security Act, and lay out definite plans for the study of their operations and proposals for changes."

Bi-partisan support for an expanded social program already has been indicated.

Experts say about "two out of five persons with wage credits" are not now covered, or some 32 million persons.

Named as associate chairman of the advisory council is Dr. Sumner H. Slichter, Harvard professor, and chairman of the research advisory board of the Committee for Economic Development. Others are:

Frank Bane, Chicago, executive director, Council of State Governments; Dr. J. Douglas Brown, Princeton; Malcolm H. Bryan, Atlanta banker; Nelson H. Cruikshank, director of social insurance activities for the American Federation of Labor; Miss Mary H. Donlon, chairman of New York State Workmen's Compensation Board; Adrian J. Falk, San Francisco, president S & W Fine Foods, Inc.; Marion B. Folson, Rochester, N. J., president Provident Mutual Life Insurance Co.;

Also, John Miller, Washington, National Planning Association; Dr. William I. Myers, N. Y., dean New York State College of Agriculture and former governor of the Farm Credit Administration; Emil Rieve, vice president Congress of Industrial Organizations; Dr. Florence Sabin, Denver scientist; S. Abbot Smith, Weston, Mass., president Thomas Strahan Co.; Delos Walker, New York, vice president R. H. Macy & Co.; Dr. Ernest Young, Purdue.

—With Shirley Povich

THOSE FOUR-ENGINED Navy transports that brought the Annapolis football team home from Berkeley, Calif., yesterday just crept along at 220 miles an hour. It was a long ride back for the Midshipmen, who could look into each other's faces and mirror their own disgust at what happened in the University of California stadium on Saturday—specifically the 14-7 beating they took from California.

POVICH

What happened was all too plain, and too reminiscent of last season's sad features when the Middies blew eight of nine ball games. There they were again, a bungling giant of a club, slapped down by their own mistakes and shoddy ball-handling, getting licked by a club they could have beaten. Fourteen first downs to California's six. California held to three first downs rushing. But California won.

From the outset, Navy in its eagerness was tight. The tension was apparent from the echo of the opening whistle when the Middies kicked out of bounds twice consecutively and thus gave California the ball on the Navy 40. Navy spent the next 28 minutes in Cal territory, but never could work up a serious scoring threat. Quarterback Reaves Baysinger wasn't sharp. It was his worst performance since he ballooned sensationally into the T quarterback job last season.

NAVY'S line was wonderful. Dick Shimshak and Newbold Smith at the tackles were a slashing pair. Ed Golding and Scott Emerson, the guards who were in the trenches, too, showed that the bigger California line could be handled easily. All of Navy's three ends, Art Markel, Phil Ryan and Harrison Frasier turned back California's sweep plays. Coach Tom Hamilton had both of his good centers, Dick Scott and Tex Lawrence backing up the line. Scouts from Duke, Columbia and Penn State got a distressing eyeful of that Navy first-string line.

But Navy's backfield play was ragged. Big Jim Hawkins crashed smartly for long gains, but on the flip-out plays from Baysinger to Earl, Williams and McCully and Schwoefferman, Navy smacked of the sandlots. It could have been typical early-season crudeness. The Middies made the same plays work nicely against Army last November. They were well conceived but poorly executed.

It didn't appear that Navy was holding much back, from peering scouts, particularly in the second half when the good ship Annapolis was listing badly. I thought the Middies came pretty close to shooting the works in a try at pulling the ball game out and getting off to a happy start for the season.

THE STORY OF THE BALL game could be wrapped up in about six plays—oll of them dismal for the Midshipmen. It was a three-play sequence that suddenly ended Navy's domination of the first half and revealed California as a dangerous club. Little Bob Celeri, the Bears' substitute quarterback, served sudden warning. Moving into the game with two minutes of the first half remaining, he pitched a superb 12-yard pass to End Johnny Cunningham that moved the Bears to Navy's 37.

Now the Middies had respect for Celeri's passing arm. Too much perhaps. Anyway, Celeri cocked his arm again, and with the Navy defenses spread, he ran the ball up the middel for 16 yards. The pass-conscious Navy club was a victim on the next play, too. Celeri found his receiver covered too well and himself covered not at all, and it was 21 yards to a touchdown.

NAVY'S BEST DRIVE of the day, a 50-yard march that finally stalled on the California 20 in the second quarter, was blighted at the outset. Schwoefferman grabbed a California pass and raced 35 yards to the Bears' 35, but a needless clip by Horne far up field on the play put Navy back on its own 30, costing the Middies 35 yards at that point.

That Navy didn't tie up the game in the last two minutes was almost unpardonable. Earl took a wide hand-off and Frasier was practically crying for the ball, alone and in the clear on Cal's 15, but it was a dismal throw that Jensen intercepted. Navy coaches probably frothed at that one above all others.

But Navy was magnificent, too, in spots. If one play can make an All-America, Capt. Dick Scott qualified with that breath-taking onside kick-off that gave Navy possession of the ball again after scoring a touchdown three minutes of the end. On-side kicks are often attempted. Here is the one that succeeds.

It was masterful fakery by Navy. Tackle Chuck Strahley lined up as if to kick off. He gave Pete Williams directions as to how to hold the ball. As Strahley moved in for the kick, Scott cut acress in front of him, booted the ball himself, simply scuffed it along the ground and then bird-dogged after it in a crouch. On the California 49, after the ball traveled one more than the required ten yards, Scott fell on it before the astounded Bears could react. It was thrilling, but like most everything else Navy did Saturday, useless.

'Skins Drop 45-42 Marathon to Eagles

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

HE DIDN'T EVEN SCORE—Halfback Bosh Pritchard of the Philadelphia Eagles returns the opening kickoff in yesterday's game with the Washington Redskins at Philadelphia which the Eagles won after a free-scoring melee, 45-42. Ki Aldrich (55) Redskins' center, and Johnny Adams (42) teammate and tackle, are ready to close in on the elusive Eagle while Pete Pihos (34), Eagles end, is coming up to ward off the tacklers. Vic Sears (79), Eagles tackle is on the deck, at the right

Sammy Baugh Pitches 5 Touchdown Passes; Scoring Record Set

Philadelphia, Sept. 28.—By the fantastic score of 45-42, Washington Redskins lost their first National Football League game of 1947 today, bowing to the Philadelphia Eagles despite a brilliant las-periodt rally before a gathering of 35,406.

It took an all-time record for point total to beat the Redskins and Sammy Baugh, their hurling star, who passed to five of the Skins' six touchdowns. The day's 87 points easily topped the previous high of 79 points scored in 1942 as the Green Bay Packers beat the Chicago Cardinals, 55-24.

Baugh, his separated ribs apparently healed with something left over, did a little record-breaking of his own. In the second period he completed the 1000th pass of his professional career and before it was over he'd run his total to 1013. That total was achieved with 21 completions in 34 tries today, good for 384 yards.

Baugh Sets New Record

With his five touchdowns Baugh, in one game, exceeded his year-long total of touchdown passes in 1944 and equaled his output throughout the 1938 season.

Three of Baugh's pay-off aerials went to Rookie Hugh Taylor, Oklahoma City University end. The gangly newcomer grabbed passes of 62, 36 and 18 yards for his six-pointers, leaving the remaining scores to Bob Nussbaumer and Dick Poillon, also on Baugh passes, and to Eddie Saenz on a 94-yard dash with the second-half kickoff.

On the line score the Eagles took a 10-point lead in the first quarter, matched the Redskins' production of 14 points in both the second and third periods, and fell behind by one touchdown in the fourth quarter. That gave them the most points they've ever scored against the Redskins.

'Skins Lead in Second

But the line score doesn't tell all of the tale. It doesn't tell how the 'Skins, 7-point underdogs, took 13 minutes of the first quarter to get possession of the ball in Eagle territory, then held a 14-10 lead in the second period.

Of course that lead, the only Washington lead of the day, lasted a mere 18 seconds, but the line-score doesn't show how the Redskins trailed by 17 points on two occasions and managed to be very much in the game at the end. Nor does the linescore show how desperately Philadelphia clung to the ball for the last 4:26 of the game, keeping Baugh from throwing the one pass that might have won for the Redskins.

With all the brilliance of Baugh, the efforts of the winners' Tommy Thompson, Rookie Pete Pihos and Steve Van Buren cannot be overlooked. All Thompson did was to throw three touchdown passes of his own, two to Pihos and one to Rookie Neil Armstrong. Pile-driving Van Buren blasted over for one 1-yard touchdown but on his other sprinted 95 yards. Substitute Al Sherman accounted for the other Eagle touchdown on a 1-yard stab at the line.

Muha's Goal Decisive

In the final analysis it was the first scoring of the game that beat the Redskins. That was big Joe Muha's 40-yard field goal from a slight angle with 2:46 of the first quarter gone. Otherwise the teams were all square, right down to the perfect extra point kicking of the Redskins' Poillon and the Eagles' 255-pound guard, Cliff Patton. Each converted six times.

The Eagles started their first touchdown drive from their own 37, moving on two first downs to the Skins' 19, from where Thompson started his point-making with a toss to Pihos, former Indiana star, over Jim Gaffney's head.

That 10-0 margin stood until 1:51 of the second quarter. But meanwhile Baugh had heaved a 37-yard pass to Jenkins and a 12-yard pass to McKee as the invaders moved from their own 28. Finally Nussbaumer was on the goal line to take Baugh's 25-yard toss and he fell over as Steinke tackled him.

Thousands of Redskin supporters came frantically alive four minutes later, after one of Muha's three unsuccessful tries for a field goal and the Redskins started moving from midfield. Baugh hit Saenz with his 999th pass completion and Eddie twisted 21 yards

Jack Jacobs Beats Bears For Packers

Green Bay, Wis., Sept. 28 (AP).—Although outpitched by Chicago's Sid Luckman, Indian Jack Jacobs of the Packers climaxed the quarterback due by slashing around end with 6 seconds to play to pace Green Bay to a 29-20 victory over the Bears in a National Football League opener.

This fifty-eighth meeting between the circuit's most bitter rivals attracted 25,461 fans. It was fought so closely it almost was decided by a safety until the Bear defense collapsed in the closing minutes and former Redskin Jacobs climaxed a downfield march with a touchdown.

Luckman Pitches for Two Scores

Luckman connected on 13 of 25 passes, two of them touchdown pitches to End Jim Keans. Jacobs handled the Packers superbly and completed 5 passes in 12 tries with one interception. The alert Packer secondary nabbed four of Luckman's pitches.

The Packers jumped to an early lead on Ward Cuff's 21-yard field goal with two minutes gone, but the Bears went ahead before the period ended on Bob Fennimore's short plunge at the end of an 86-yard march.

It was Green Bay most of the way after that, although the Bears threatened briefly in the final period on a series of Luckman passes climaxed by a toss to Keane. That made it 22-20, and the strongly partisan Packer crowd worried loudly. But Ted Fritsch and Jacobs, running hard and helped by confusion in the Bear defense collaborated on the finol touchdown drive.

McLean Nailed for Safety

The safety that looked for a while like the big point came in the third quarter when Ray McLean, figuring to skirt the end, was trapped in the end zone by Bruce Smith and ahost of helpers.

Jacobs was the big gun in the Packer offense. He passed for two touchdowns, Nolan Luhn making a great catch in the first play of the second quarter, and Smith the other, in addition to cashing in the insurance score at the end.

50,000 See Colts Lose To Yanks, 21-7

Baltimore, Sept. 28 (AP).—Orban (Spec) Sanders led the New York Yankees to a 21-7 victory over the Baltimore Colts in an All-America Conference game today before a record professional football crowd in Baltimore of over 50,000.

The Colts were stopped twice within the Yankee 10-yard line in the final period.

Sanders scored two touchdowns himself and passed to Halfback Harry Burrus for a third in the first half as the Yanks maintained their hot pace in the Eastern Division.

But the crowd, a record for the Eastern Division, got its biggest thrills from the Colt's quarterback, Bud Schwenk, whose passing and individual brilliance kept Baltimore in the game during the final two periods.

New York tallied twice within 10 minutes in the first quarter.

Lou Sossamon recovered Ray Terrel's fumble on the Colt 25, and Sanders blasted to the 11. After Buddy Young went to the six, Sanders crashed over in two tries and Harvey Johnson placekicked the first of three extra points.

A few minutes later Sanders passed to Burrus on the five and he ran across.

Dewey Proctor's fumble set up Baltimore's score in the second period. Barry French recovered on the Yank 17, and with Schwenk and little Doc Mobley spearing the drive, moved to the four, from where Bus Mertes went over. Augie Lio placekicked the extra point.

Nats Wind Up Sour Season With 5-1 Win Over Red Sox

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

The Nats closed out their books for the season yesterday, inserting a snazzy little 5-1 victory over the Red Sox at Griffith Stadium as the final entry in the 1947 ledger.

Mickey Haefner was the fellow chiefly responsible for the seventh-place Griffs rining down the curtain on a miserable year with a bright performance.

He southpawed the Bostonians into submission in scoring his tenth victory, spreading out the 10 hits he allowed very craftily.

Vernon, Evans Hit Timely

Haefner's stout pitching performance was backed up by some timely, although not lusty, swatting by Mickey Vernon and Al Evans, who equally divided four of the nine Nat hits.

Evans rapped a two-run single off Starter Earl Johnson in the second to give the Nats a lead which they increased in the next inning. This time Vernon cuffed Rookie Lefthander Chuck Stobbs, a high school product from Norfolk, Va., for a two-run double.

Vernon himself scored the third run of the inning a moment later and the 5-1 lead Haefner had at the end of the round was more than ample.

Little Mickey lost his shutout in the second when the Sox grouped two singles and Leon Culberson's outfield fly for their lone tally.

Ted Takes Title

Also of noteworthy importance was the fact that Ted Williams swatted out a pair of harmless singles to end up the year with a .343 average and the American League batting championship.

He displaces the Nats' Vernon, whose two hits yesterday gave him a final mark of about .270, almost 90 points below his winning .353 of last year.

The Red Sox entertained a slight hope of being able to finish in a tie for second with Detroit before yesterday's game, but their chances went by the boards in the second inning when the score of the Tiger-Cleveland game was posted. Detroit nosed out Feller, 1-0, to clinch the runner-up spot.

Hogan Wins $5000 Meet

Chicago, Sept. 28 (AP).—Ben Hogan of Hershey, Pa., who earlier this year scorned to play for Promoter George S. May, today won May's second international golf tourney with a nine under par 135 to grab the $5000 first prize.

Hogan closed the 36-hole showdown among eight handpicked players with a two-under-standard 70, finishing three strokes ahead of South African Bobby Locke.

Little Ben's triumph vaulted him atop the Nation's professionals in 1947 money winning with $27,310.

In addition to the $5000 cash prize in the winner-take-all meet, Hogan also got $2000 appearance money which May guaranteed all eight starters.

Last July, Hogan, along with Jimmy Demaret and Lew Worsham, who also played in the current meet, refused to compete in May's rich All-American tourney which was won by Locke.

Christman Sparks Cards To 45-21 Win

Chicago, Sept. 28 (AP).—Paul Christman, former All-America from Missouri, tossed two scoring passes and set up three other touchdowns with his aerial work to lead the Chicago Cardinals to a 45-to-21 victory over the Detroit Lions in an opening National Football League game today before 22,739 fans in Comiskey Park.

Christman, who was withheld from play in the last quarter, picked up a total of 320 yards with 16 completions in 24 attempts. His gain by passing fell only 113 yards short of matching the league record set by the Chicago Bears' Sid Luckman against the New York Giants in 1943.

Five touchdowns were posted in the first half, with the Cardinals taking a 21-14 lead. Christman hit Bill Dewell for 31 yards then passed nine to Mal Kutner in the end zone for the first marker. Detroit tied the score 7-7 in the second period when Bill Dudley's 23-yard run put the ball on the two and Roy Zimmerman went over from the one foot line.

Clyde Le Force tossed a 27-yard pass to Dudley for Detroit's second score.

The Cardinals made it 14-7 by parading 70 yards in eight plays before Harder sliced across from the five. Before the half gun the Cardinals drove 72 yards in three plays, Christman picking up 26 with a toss to Kutner when spearing Boris Dimancheff in a 44-yard pass play for the touchdown.

Harder plunged for his second touchdown to put the Cardinals ahead, 28-14, in the third quarter. Ramsey then stole Zimmerman's pass to set up the fifth Chicago score. Christman passed 24 yards to Kutner then Elmer Angsman banked over from the three.

Harder Kicks Goal

Harder, who converted six times, booted a 25-yard field goal at the start of the final period to boost the Cardinals into a 38-14 advantage.

The Lions followed with a two-yard scoring pass from Clyde Leforce to End Ted Cremer. Zimmerman added the extra point for the third time.

The Cardinals sixth touchdown came on a 17-yard pass from Ray Mallouf to End Jeff Burkett.

Schmeling Marks 43d Birthday by Comeback Kayo

Frankfurt, Germany, Sept. 28. Max Schmeling won his first fight in a comeback campaign today by knocking out Werner Vollmer in the seventh round, but even in victory he looked a lot different from the battler who once held the world's heavyweight championship.

It was Schmeling's forty-third birthday, and there were times when he showed his age. He appeared slower than when he wore the world crown 16 years ago. However, he could still hit hard and he still was a crafty boxer.

The scowling "Black Uhlan" knocked the 26-year-old Vollmer to the canvas seven times before the referee finally counten 10 as Vollmer struggled belatedly to his feet with two minutes and a half gone in the seventh round of the 10-rounder.

Vollmer's face was a bloody smear, his right eye swollen almost shut while Schmeling was unmarked at the end.

Schmeling was jubilant over the outcome of his first fight since 1939. "Sometime I will be over there again in the States," he predicted.

Harris Names Frank Shea For Opener

New York, Sept. 28 (AP).—Manager Bucky Harris of the Yankees announced tonight that Frank pitcher in the first game of the on Tuesday at Yankee Stadium.

Shea will be the first freshman ever to pitch a World Series opener for an American League winner. Three National League first-year men have opened—Babe Adams for Pittsburgh in 1909, Jeff Tesreau for the New York Giants in 1912, and Paul Derringer for the Cardinals in 1931.

Shea, who will not celebrate his twenty-fifth birthday until October 2, won 14 games while losing 5 for the Yankees in his first season. He was out much of the campaign with a sore arm, the past fortnight.

His mound opponent in the first game likely will be Ralph Branca, 21-year-old Dodger right-hander, who won 21 games, while losing 12. The likelihood is that they will be the youngest opening-day hurlers in World Series history.

Dean Blanks Chisox for Four Innings

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 28 (AP).—Dizzy Dean revived old memories today, this time in a St. Louis Brownie uniform, as he held the Chicago White Sox to three hits in four innings of today's game, which Chicago later won, 5-2.

"I only had two warmups for this game," Diz declared after the contest. "My arm got looser all along, I didn't have a bit of arm trouble."

In fact, it was Dean's hard single to left, which brought the nearly 16,000 fans to their feet, that caused his departure after the fourth frame.

In running to first base he pulled a leg muscle. Later he slid into second base where he was forced out, but the old-time derbird hurler, now a radio sports announcer, said it was the running that pulled the muscle.

Coming to bat in the third for his only trip he sported a black and white striped bat which Chief Umpire Cal Hubbard ruled out. In the confusion "Old Diz" was handed a red and white stick with which he picked on Ed Lopat's first offering for the safe blow.

A little more showmanship cropped up after Dean was called out at second. He pretended that he hadn't heard the decision and Umpire Red Jones had to go out and convince the hurler of the putout. Dizzy returned to the Brownie dugout where he and Baster of Ceremonies Johnny Perkins fanned each other with towels.

Kramer Wins Again

Los Angeles, Sept. 28 (AP).—National Champion Jack Kramer beat his Davis Cup pal, Ted Schroeder, 10—8, 6—4, 6—4, for the second straight year in the men's singles finals of the Pacific Southwest tennis tournament today.

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

"DIZ" HAS HIS DAY—Jerome (the Dizzy One) Dean, who made his 1947 baseball debut against the Chicago White Sox yesterday with the St. Louis Browns, appeared at bat with a blue-striped bat, but Umpire Cal Hubbard wouldn't permit Jerome to use it. Back he came with a red-striped number and lashed a single to left in the third inning. Watching Dean argue is Chicago Catcher Mike Tresh. The visiting White Sox won, 5-2

Evers Scores Lone Run After Triple

Cleveland, Sept. 28 (AP).—The Detroit Tigers won second place in the American League today as Right-hander Fred Hutchinson blanked the Cleveland Indians, 1-0, on six hits. Loser Bob Feller allowed six Detroit hits, one a second-inning triple by Walt Evers who then scored the winning run on a double play.

An attendance of 27,617 boosted the home-game attendance for the season here to 1,521,978.

Feller fanned only one Bengal in losing his eleventh against 20 victories—six less than he had at the finish of last season. For Hutchinson, who struck out four, it was the eighteenth triumph against 10 setbacks.

Evers' triple was followed by a walk to Roy Cullenbine. Catcher Bob Swift then hit into a double play, on which Evers scored the winning marker.

The victory gave Detroit a clean sweep of the three-game series.

The 1,521,978 home-game attendance set a record here. Tribe President Bill Veeck announced two weeks ago that the Indians' share of all receipts in excess of a million and a half attendance would be donated to the local Community Chest program.

U. S. Team Snares Weight-Lift Title

Philadelphia, Sept. 28 (AP).—The United States successfully defended its world weight-lifting championship as its 12-man team swept to victory in all six title divisions.

Stanley Stanczyk, York, Pa., middleweight and captain of the American team, set three world records and equaled another as he paced the U. S. to victory last night. John Davis, Brooklyn, N. Y., Negro heavyweight, also smashed three records. The U. S. finished with 27 points.

Following the weight championships, Steve Stanko of York won the "Mr. Universe" title in a contest to choose the man in the world with the best balanced physical development, symmetrically and proportionately.

Quantico Wins Title; Beats San Diego, 5-0

The Quantico Marines won the best-of-five all-Navy baseball championship series by defeating the San Diego Naval Air Training Station, 5-0, yesterday at Quantico to take the series, three games to one.

Bucky Loomis, Quantico hurler, shut out San Diego with six hits, while Pete Pieritsch and Ralph Russo drove in all the winners' runs with a pair of hits apiece.

Pirates Win Finale, 7-0

Pittsburgh, Sept. 28 (AP).—Ernie Bonham, a none-time New York Yankee, was in championship form today, allowing just two hits as he pitched the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 7-0 shutout victory over the Cincinnati Reds in the final game of the National League seson before 33,704 fans.

Ralph Kiner failed to hit for the circuit today and wound up the season with 51 home runs. However, Catcher Mickey Howell and Third Baseman Frank Gustine each hit home runs for the Pirates.

The season, the worst for the Pirates since 1917, set a new attendance record of 1,283,600—413,880 better than the previous record set in the World Series year of 1927.

Cooper Tests Ken Stribling At Turner's

Middleweights Ken Stribling of Washington, and Irish Billy Cooper of New York are scheduled to bang each other around for 10 rounds or less as Washington's indoor boxing season opens at Turner's Arena tonight.

The Stribling-Cooper clash tops what Matchmaker Gabe Menendez likes to refer to as "an all fighting card" and he would not offer the slightest objection if a sizable crowd attended his first fall offering.

Menendez is hopeful of making Stribling a big attraction and if the local colored 160-pounder gets by Cooper this evening he'll undoubtedly be sent against Bee Bee Washington two or three weeks hence.

Cooper, however, will present somewhat of an obstacle. He's a younster, who, like Stribling, has the reputation of being a puncher. Stribling showed local patrons that he packs a wallop this spring when he disposed of Joe Gannon and Frank Sweeney in one and three rounds, respectively, while running up a string of six straight kayos.

Cooper, a Chris Dundee product, has been bowling 'em over in the East and counts victories over Sonny Horne, J. C. Wilkins, and Jerry Fiorello among his latest successes.

Supporting the Stribling-Cooper top will be five preliminaries, starting at 8:45.

Billy Terry and Sonny Boy Bunn, welters, will meet in a five. Unbeaten Puggy King will tackle Red Gaddis in a five-round rematch.

In another five Kid Wolfe will oppose Herb Taylor. Fours show Tommy Larner against Angelo Marini and Buddy Thomas against Joe Stevens.

Cubs Blank Cardinals, 3-0

Chicago, Sept. 28 (AP).—The Chicago Cus closed the season today by defeating the St. Louis Cardinals, 3 to 0, behind the five-hit pitching of Johnny Schmitz. The Cubs, who ended the season in sixth place, were aided by Bill Nicholson's twenty-sixth home run of the year in the second inning.

The crowd of 17,414 brought the paid season attendance to 1,364,039, surpassing last season's mark by 21,069.

Tech Seeks to Avenge 1946 Upset Loss to Roosevelt Today

Highs Play 19 Games This Week

The first genuine "grudge" game of the interhigh football season takes place today at 3:15 p. m. when McKinley Tech's Trainers and Roosevelt's Rough Riders clash at Central Stadium.

Today's game ushers in a week of schoolboy football that is climaxed by 14 games Friday and four more Saturday. One of the three Friday interhigh games may be shifted to Saturday as the result of a Board of Principals meeting which has been called for today at noon to discuss changes in the league schedule.

The Tech-Roosevelt feud dates back to last year's meeting of the two schools just before the Tech-Coolidge championship game. Tech had already clinched its playoff berth and was considered a lop-sided favorite over Roosevelt which had won only two of five games 'til then.

In the first half, the Trainers were off to a 7-0 lead. Tech Coach Ed Solomon then inserted his second and third team, and Roosevelt responded by pushing over two touchdowns to go ahead 12-7. The return of Tech's regular team as the fourth quarter began could not turn the tide, and the Riders went off the field victors.

Many believe that the Roosevelt triumph knocked the Trainers off stride and set them up for the 18-6 licking they took in the title game from Coolidge, a team Tech has previously beaten.

The Trainers, with eight regulars back from that last Rider tilt, have spoken of nothing in practice but of avenging that loss. And the Riders, angered by Tech charges that they were lucky last time, are out to prove that they were really the better team.

The Trainers are favorites today with a running attack sparked by line-plunging Cece Gray and end-circling Bugs Thompson. Thompson, recovering from flu, may see only limited action.

Six lettermen will be in Roosevelt's starting lineup. Pacing the attack will be Jerry Rothkin, a swift breakaway runner; Bernie Mead, and Aris Bacas, a sharp-shooting passer.

Baugh Hurls 5 Touchdown Passes in 45-42 'Skin Loss

to the Redskins' 38. From back of that point then, on the next play, No. 1000 went into the "slinger's" book as Sammy laid a 22-yarder in Taylor's eager hands and the latter romped 40 yards down the right sideline.

The Romp Starts

Redskin jubilation over the 14-10 lead, as we said, was short lived. Peebles kicked off and Van Buren, standing on his own 5 was only slightly interrupted in a 95-yard jaunt made possible by Kilroy's beautiful block of defenseman Poillon.

Five minutes of the half remained when the Eagles started the march that gave them a 24-14 half-time edge. It went for 56 yards, featured by Thompson's passes to Pihos for 13 and 25 yards, and was capped by Sherman's quarterback sneak from the 1-yard stripe.

The usually interesting half-time show of the Redskins band was completely forgotten on the second half kickoff. That was when Saenz, taking the ball on his six, went all the way to cut the Eagles' lead to 24-21. A sidelight was that Saenz needed 17 seconds for his 94-yard score while Van Buren earlier had gone one yard more in the same time.

Eagles March Again

Again there were 10 points separating the teams shortly afterward, however, when the Eagles marched 63 yards and Van Buren punched over from the one in his fourth straight power drive from the 12. And Redskin rooters were really ready to retire when it jumped to 38-21 on Thompson's 21-yard pass to Pihos with 3:06 of the third period laft.

But Baugh got into action on the next kickoff. Nussbaumer ran the ball to the 35 and fro mthere, for 65 yards, the Baugh brigade moved goalward.

The only Baugh pass in the sequence went to Taylor for a 56-yard gain to the Eagle 4, stopped only by Steinke's tackle of the loping Oklahoman from behind. In three line plays the Skins were right where they started and Baugh went back on fourth down to drop a laughably toss into Pillons' hands.

Philadelphia got in the first lick in the final session, making it 45-28 on Thompson's throw to Armstrong. The 29-yard scoring play, incidentally, was the first play in the pro career of Armstrong, a 21-year-old prospect from Oklahoma A. and M. He played Defruiter perfectly, however, to take the pass on the 4 and stumble into pay territory.

But then it was Baugh's turn.

From the Redskin's 28 it was Baugh to Taylor for 12, Baugh to Duckworth for 3, Baugh to Taylor for 9 and finally from the Eagles' 36, it was Baugh to Taylor on the eight-yard line and clear sailing for the long pass receiver.

One ineffectual Eagle offensive collapsed and Baugh was at it again. He got one first down when roughed as he went back, then hurled to Taylor for 11 yards on the Eagle 18. One toss to Taylor went wide before the Baugh-Taylor combine clicked and the count was 45-42.

There it remained because the Eagles, using up 4 minutes and 26 seconds, wouldn't give Baugh another chance. Maybe they knew something!

Cubans Win Title

Cleveland, Sept. 28 (AP).—The New York Cubans came from behind to beat the Cleveland Buckeyes 6-5 today and sweep the Negro world series in four straight games. Five Cleveland errors helped the visitors to the championship.

49ers' Rally Swamps Bills

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 28 (AP).—Striking back savagely after trailing 24-7 in the second half, the San Francisco 49ers today defeated the Buffalo Bills, 41-24, in an All-America Football Conference game before 35,404 spectators—Buffalo's record gridiron crowd.

With Buffalo leading 24-7 in the third period, the Far Westerners came roaring back in the same frame for two touchdowns and then swept the Bills off their feet with a three-touchdown surge in the final quarter.

Jess Freitas passed 14 yards to Allyn Beals in the third to pull San Francisco up to 14-21 and after Dippy Evans fumbled on the next kickoff, Albert raced 14 yards to pay-off territory on a reverse.

Ed Forrest flopped on Julie Rykovich's fumble as play got under way in the fourth quarter, and Standlee swept 2 yards for the touchdown that sent San Francisco ahead, 28-24.

Falls Church, Car Credit Tie

Car Credit and Falls Church deadlocked for the Eastern Division lead in the Metropolitan Football League's unlimited class as each won its second straight game.

Car Credit remained unscored on while whipping Potomac Post No. 40 on Edgewood gridiron, 12-0.

Falls Church was an easy winner over Snug Harbor Tavern at Falls Church, Va., High School, 27-6.

Eig's Liquors moved into a runner-up tie with Potomac Post No. 40 in unlimited Western Division play by smothering Prince Georges Merchants at College Park, Md., 33-0.

The Eastern Division leading Anacostio Eagles were idle.

Riverside Rollers moved into the 160-pound Metro-League's Western Division lead as it won over Brookland-Woodbridge Merchants at Turkey Thicket, 12-0.

The Southwest Merchants beat Anacostia Lions 7-0, at West Potomac Polo field; Southeast A. C. gained the Eastern Division 160-pound lead by turning back Merrick Boys Club at Fairlawn No. 1 by 6-0, and the Shamrocks overcame a 0-7 deficit to trounce Maryland Mohawks, 13-7, at Fletcher Field in other 160-pound games.

Steelers Oppose Rams Tonight

Pittsburgh, Sept 29 (AP).—A near-capacity crowd of 37,000 is expected at Forbes field tomorrow night as the Pittsburgh Steelers and the Los Angeles Rams meet in a National Football League contest.

The Steelers, 17-10 victors over the Detroit Lions, will be after their second consecutive win. It will be the first league start for the coast eleven.

The game also marks the league debut of Coach Bob Snyder who succeeded Adam Walsh.

Everybody is asking...

"Why can't I get more Budweiser?"

The fact is that Anheuser-Busch is making more BUDWEISER than ever before—but more people are asking for it than ever before.

Time and again we have built the world's largest brewery bigger. Now we are in the midst of the biggest expansion of all. It will make many more millions of bottles of BUDWEISER available.

Meanwhile we are distributing our tremendous output on a fair-share basis to all.

It seems that people no longer ask for beer—they ask for Budweiser

About 250 persons attended the sanctioned Boxer match sponsored by the Potomac Boxer Club of Washington at the Fairfax, Va., Memorial Athletic Field yesterday afternoon.

Chosen as best-in-match in a field of 79 dogs was "Contemplation of Dellwood," a puppy bitch belonging to Claiborne B. Morton of McLean, Va., by Mrs. Donald Russell of Wappinger Falls, N. Y., who judged the show.

"Inlai of Avenel," an adult dog belonging to Miss V. Gibson of Hyattsville, Md., was judged the best dog of the opposite sex. Frank Adams of Hyattsville was chairman.

Dogs entered in the show, owned by the following persons, won first places in their classes:

Puppies, two to four months, L. S. Martin, Washington; four to six months, Mr. and Mrs. William O. Ohler, Vienna, Va.; six to nine months, J. W. Sinclair, Warrenton, Va.; nine to 12 months, Alfonso Grubhover, Chevy Chase, Md.

Novice dog, L. L. Goldberg of Washington, and American bred dog, W. H. Harding, Alexandria, Va.

Puppy bitches, two to four months, William Gerick, Alexandria; four to six months, Mrs. Stanley Rowland, Falls Church, Va.; six to nine months, Mr. and Mrs. George Atz, Vienna; nine to 12 months, Claiborne B. Morton, McLean.

Novice bitch, Mrs. Jouett Shouse of Washington, president of the club, and American bred bitch, Louis A. Moss, Alexandria.

C. D. Van Duzer Ill; Former Congressman

Passaic, N. J., Sept. 28 (INS).—Former Nevada Democratic Congressman Clarence D. Van Dunzer, one of labor's staunchest supporters at the turn of the century, was reported in a critical condition tonight at the Beth Israel Hospital, Passaic, N. J.

The 84-year-old former legislator, who served in Washington from 1901 to 1905, suffered a relapse earlier in the day.

Travel Curbed In Near East

Cairo, Sept. 28 (INS).— Near East governments imposed drastic travel restrictions tonight to prevent spread of cholera which already has taken 27 lives in Egypt and is still uncontrolled.

The regular pilgrimage of Iraq Moslems to Mecca, holy city of Islam in Saudi Arabia, was cancelled by the Baghdad government and air transport between Iraq, Egypt, Palestine and India was suspended.

Because of the Egyptian cholera outbreaks, which rose to 109 in the 24-hour period ending Saturday night, compared with 94 the previous day, meeting of the Arab League scheduled in Cairo next week was transferred to Beirut.

Town Crier Uses Sound Truck Now

Ye Olde Town Crier in modern guise will announce the meeting of the Sligo-Branview Community Association at 8 p. m. Wednesday at Parkside School, Silver Spring, Md. A sound truck will traverse the streets of the communities served by the association to announce the meeting to the 700 area homes.

The town crier will be Dr. Howard M. Kline, vice president of the association, assisted by Publicity Chairman J. Wallace Talley. Among the subjects to be discussed will be the community's proposed new school, street paving, zoning and new building problems. The lighter side of the meeting will include a barber shop quartet and refreshments.

Bogus Money Seized

Marseille, France, Sept. 28 (U.P.).—Police arrested 12 persons tonight after raiding two clandestine print shops in the suburbs of Marseille that they said were turning out counterfeit American $50 and $100 bills.

Chief Inspector Francois Poirier estimated that his detectives had seized 25 million dollars worth of bills, a haul that weighed several hundred pounds.

Eminent Physicist Ill in Germany

Berlin, Sept. 28 (U.P.).—The Russian-licensed German news agency ADN reported today that Prof. Max Planck, recognized as one of the world's greatest physicists, was critically ill at a hospital in Goettingen, American zone.

Planck, now 89, was one of the founders of the quantum theory, the basis for modern physics.

Laggard Employes To Be Given Warning

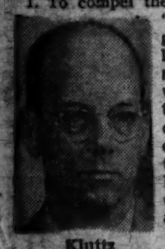
Plan Calls for Three Months Notice Before Efficiency Rating Is Lowered

By Jerry Kluttz



Kluttz

Two significant changes are due to be made soon in the efficiency rating system. They are:

1. To compel the supervisor to "warn" a laggard employe at least three months in advance that he's to be given either a "fair" or "unsatisfactory" rating unless he snaps out of his lethargy and,

2. To abolish all interim ratings. The interim ratings are now required for employes who are either given a change of status or if they haven't served long enough on March 31, the annual rating date, to be given a rating.

The first proposal is the most important. It would throw far more responsibility on the individual supervior; it would tend to make his staff more efficient and productive by keeping them on their toes; it would make the ratings something to be contended with the year-round, and it would result in far fewer employe appeals of their poor ratings.

This is the way it would operate: on or before January 1 of each year—or on any earlier date—the supervisor would have to call in and warn those employes who had fallen down on their jobs. He'd have to give them details of their work shortcomings. Also, he'd be under orders to explain to them how their work could be improved, and how the agency could help them by providing training courses, etc.

Those employes who failed to improve before the March 31 deadline would be given either a fair or unsatisfactory rating which would lead to demotion or dismissal. They would be reluctant to appeal since the burden of proof would be on them.

The average employe who now appeals invariably makes the point that he had presumed his work had been satisfactory since he had been told nothing to the contrary.

STORY: Commissioner Clyde B. Aitchison of the Interstate Commerce Commission, has taken a new kind of "loyalty" oath. At a recent hearing he solemnly raised his right hand and pronounced:

"I swear that what I'm about to read has been faithfully and truthfully prepared for me by my attorneys."

CIG: All jobs in the Central Intelligence Agency have been taken out from under the Civil Service system on order of Harry B. Mitchell, president of the Civil Service Commission. Among other things, this means CIG jobs won't be ordered to hire displaced career employes. Incidentally, a gradual shake-up and reorganization of CIG personnel is underway.

OUT: The Mitchell order also took these additional jobs out of Civil Service control: 24 top-level positions in the new Research and Development Board; 25 jobs in the National Security Council; nine in the office of the Defense Secretary, and six in the National Security Resources Board.

REORGANIZATION: The 12-man committee to study reorganization of the Federal Government meets today with the President who will wish them success. Former President Herbert Hoover is expected to be elected chairman.

The committee will be given office space in the Normandy Building on K st. between 16th and 17th sts. An office for Mr. Hoover was put in order over the weekend. Helping the former President with details of the organization are two of his former top assistants, Larry Richey, former White House secretary, and Dr. Julius Klein, a former Commerce Assistant Secretary.

HHFA: The Housing and Home Finance Agency, formerly National Housing, also will be moved into the Normandy Building . . .

TREASURY: Its longtime chief clerk, Frank A. Birgfeld, retires today after a near-record of 55 years in the Federal service . . .

LOYALTY: The American Civil Liberties Union will set up a panel of lawyers to defend Federal workers accused of disloyalty.

AF: The Air Forces is pleading for recruits. But at Bolling Field the enlisted men are being given janitor, electrician, and plumber jobs among others. The civilians, many of whom are veterans, are being fired.

JOBS: The Library of Congress has openings for several CAF-2 photostat operators. Apply to its personnel office . . . International Labor Office needs an administrative officer who is an American and who can speak French. The job is in Montreal. Apply in writing to the ILO office here at 734 Jackson Place.

DOWN: Only three States—Minnesota, North Dakota, and Vermont—have been able to withstand the sharp reduction of Federal workers that wiped out 1,064,333 jobs in the two-year period ending last June 30.

These States reported small increases in Federal employment while other States showed reductions up to 61 per cent in that period of postwar adjustment. About a third of the reduction was in three other States, California, New York and Pennsylvania.

The Civil Service summary reported a reduction here of 51,474 employes in the two-year period, from 256,711 to 205,237, or 20.1 per cent. The over-all reduction in this country was 36.5 per cent, and it jumped to 43.5 per cent when the overseas force was added. In other words, the percentage reduction here was far below the average. However, Federal employment here stumped 9000 additional during the months of July, August and September.

The Postoffice Department is the No. 1 Federal employer in 26 States, the War Department in 9 States, and Navy in 8 States.

A State-by-State breakdown of the Federal employment picture from June 30, 1945, to June 30, 1947, follows:

Exploring the Flora and Fauna of Roosevelt Island

TOUR GETS UNDERWAY—Nature lovers brave the high weeds of Roosevelt Island as W. Drew Chick, National Capital Parks naturalist, points out various plants. The Washington Post reporter and photographer went along looking for a bull, supposed to be stranded on the island sometime back, according to newspaper colleague whose background is the flora and fauna of the press room at police headquarters

Maj. Barrett Likely to Ask 4th Precinct Funds Report

Only One of Three Police Associations Have Books Checked By Outside Auditor

Police Superintendent Robert J. Barrett returned to Washington yesterday and was expected to order a full report from his subordinates on the Fourth Precinct funds audit today.

The Washington Post disclosed Saturday that the District Auditor's office had ordered an investigation of all funds at that precinct after learning that a shortage of $145 had been made up by men at the station.

Saturday's story also revealed that Pvt. Oscar L. Fisher, Fourth Precinct station clerk, had not turned in collections of more than $750 in dues to three police benefit associations when he ended his life 11 days ago.

It was learned yesterday that only one of the three associations, the Metropolitan Police Relief Association, has its books checked annually by outside auditors.

Death Benefits Paid

The largest of the three organizations, the Relief Association which was organized in 1872, has more than 2700 members including White House police. It is the largest of the three funds and totaled $453,578 at the beginning of the year.

The Relief Association collects monthly dues of $2 from men and $1 from women. It pays a death benefit fo $1500 for men and $750 for women.

It has a three-member board of trustees which is elected annually by the board of directors and is in general charge of fiscal matters. The board of trustees scans all accounts, prepares an annual financial statement and arranges for the annual audit by an outside auditing firm.

Collectors Not Bonded

Although it does not bond the precinct collectors, the relief association has its secretary-treasurer and his assistant bonded for $10,000 each. The associaton is headed by Capt. Clarence Lutz.

The two groups, which do not have an outside aud eamtid have an outside audit made, are the Policemen's Association, headed by Captain Fondahl, and the Metropolitan Police Retirement Association, whose president is Capt. John J. Agnew.

Captain Agnew is also secretary-treasurer of the Relief Association. He said yesterday that he will seek to have a bookkeeping system similar to that of the the Retirement Association.

The Retirement Association collects monthly dues of $2 from approximately 1600 members. It has assets of about $125,000.

- zfiflf

Q& The Policemen's Association has a membership of about 2200 and assets of about $55,000. Its members pay only 50 cents a month dues.

Captain Fondahl has announced that he will seek revision of the by-laws of the Policemen3s Association which would serve to tighten the financial affairs of the organization.

The auditors sent to the precinct by the District Auditor's Office are concerned only with District funds, such as collateral and money deposited at the precinct for welfare payments. The auditors began a check of the books Friday and will resume their work today.

At Harper's Ferry

'Ghost Town' Feared From New Bridge

Harpers Ferry, W. Va., Sept. 28 (AP).—Residents of this historic old community at the gateway between the North and South are expressing fears these days that Harpers Ferry soon will become a virtual ghost town because of an almost-completed bridge a short way down the Potomac.

The new Sandy Hook Bridge—due to be completed before November 1—will connect United States Route 340 with United States Route 9 and divert most of the traffic between Frederick, Md., and Washington, D. C., away from Harpers Ferry.

And, to add to it all, West Virginia's Road Commission plans to take more tourists away from a present direct route through Harpers Ferry within the next two years with construction of a new section of Route 340 that will bypass the town. West Virginia also plans a bridge across the Shenandoah River to form a link with the Sandy Hook span, which is sponsored jointly by Maryland and Virginia.

Mayor L. D. Nichols expressed the feelings of many of his constituents when he said people today "are in a hurry." They won't, he contends, take the trouble to use the road into the town instead of the by-pass.

"Even if people have heard all their lives of Harpers Ferry—how John Brown was captured here by Robert E. Lee—they simply won't come to see the town if it's off their main route," the mayor said.

Laundryman Found Beaten In Bedroom

A nephew of the late Charles Moy, one-time Mayor of Washington's Chinatown, was found severely beaten yesterday morning in a bedroom at the hear of his

At Emergency Hospital, the victim, Moy Sing, 47, was report-

Third Precince policemen found Sing semiconscious at 5:12 a. m. when they arrived at his laundry after a call from a Chesapeake & Telephone Co. operator.

Sing apparently had been able to dial "O" on the phone, police said, and the operator, hearing groans, traced the signal and notified police.

George Moy, 609 H st. ne., a cousin, said Sing told him he had gone to bed about 3:35 a. m., after drinking tea which he himself had made. Police said Sing may have been attacked by a girl employe of the laundry whom he recently discharged.

Sing, a native of Canton, China, who has been in the United States about 30 years, suffered lacerations of the scalp, hand and possible skull fracture.

Nearby Nature Found Tame By Roosevelt Island Explorers

By Charles Del Vecchio—The Washington Post

LITTLE MISS MUFFET?—Along came a spider but Caroline Cullen, 9, of 203 West Cameron st., Falls Church, wasn't scared a bit. Above, she's examining the insect

Some 150 District nature-lovers participated in an amphibious operation yesterday on Roosevelt Island in the middle of the Potomac.

Their mission was to reap the benefits of a Sunday afternoon in fresh air and to enjoy some lingering September warmth, if any.

The invading force, led by guides of the National Capital Parks, included a reporter and photographer from The Washington Post.

They found a very well-developed spider wab inhabited by a mighty healthy looking spider. They saw a cicada-killing wasp, a walnut and a butternut. They viewed wild sumach and a Kentucky coffee tree and they breathed in a lot of stimulating air.

They also learned about Roosevelt (Theodore) that is) Island formerly known as My Lord's (of Baltimore) Island, Barbados Island, Analostan Island.

Baltimore gave the island to one of his captains as a reward for his services, which was when the name was first changed. The land later was inhabited by the Analostan Indians.

At one time it passed into the hands of George Mason, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. Mason's grandson developed it as farmland.

At one time it was the scene of fashionable Washington fetes held by the Mason family. But gradually, the Mason fortunes shifted.

Then the island was successively an amusement park, a picnic ground and then was purchased by the Washington Gas Light Co., which planned to use it for storage tanks.

When this plan was opposed by the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, the company sold the island to the Theodore Roosevelt Memorial Society, which donated it to the National Capital Parks.

NCP plans to develop it eventually as a natural park area similar to Rock Creek Park, to be reached by ferry (as it was yesterday). Meanwhile, the land is being allowed to return completely to nature, after which NCP will make a few improvements.

Among yesterday's hardy woodsmen were several of tender years. One suggested that a big lawnmower would be needed to cut all the grass.

Another, who had his father in tow, was told as he stepped ashore: "Now you're realizing a life's ambition. You're setting foot on foreign soil."

Said the little boy: "I've heard there are ghosts over here."

E. E. HUNT

Dix to Retire As Red Cross Executive

Everett L. Dix, 65, veteran American Red Cross executive, will retire Tuesday.

Dix, who lives on Braddock rd., Fairfax, Va., has been associated with the Red Cross in Washington since 1925.

His experience has included service in the Mississippi Valley floods of 1927 and 1937 and others in the Eastern and Southeastern sections of the country, as well as other disaster work.

He became identified with the Red Cross in 1919, when, as a volunteer in the Midle West, he supervised the social service training program in what was then known as the Lake Division.

Subsequently he became a member of the Southern Division staff in Atlanta, where he directed chapter service and Junior Red Cross activities. He was assigned to national headquaters in 1925.

For the past several years he has headed the organization's office of publications.

Prior to joining the Red Cross staff Dix was associate professor of social service at Berea College.

Naval Academy To Greet British Admiral Today

Annapolis, Md., Sept. 28 (AP).—Vice Admiral Sir William Tennant, British commander in chief of the America and West Indies station, will be guest of honor at the Naval Academy in a six-day courtesy visit beginning tomorrow.

Admiral Tennant will come here aboard HMS Sheffield, a British light cruiser of 12,000 tons. While visit Washington, where his flag the vessel is here, the admiral will will fly aboard the destroyer Snipe.

Admiral Tennant was named Knight Commander of the Bath for his services during World War II. He was senior naval officer under the late Admiral Sir Bertram Ramsey in organizing the naval evacuation at Dunkirk.

He was commander of HMS Repulse when the battleship was sunk by the Japanese in the Pacific in December, 1941. He served in all war theaters during the connection with the construction of flict and did special work in conartificial harbors for the Normandy invasion.

Veterans Pay Tribute to Father Hurney

Catholic veterans yesterday paid tribute to the late Father Francis J. Hurney on the 14th anniversary of his death.

Members of the Father Hurney Post of the Catholic War Veterans worshiped at a memorial mass at Immaculate Conception Church, 8th and N sts. nw., where Father Hurney was serving as pastor when he died in 1933.

The Rev. Joseph E. Gedra, pastor of Immaculate Conception Church, celebrated the mass. In his sermon he praised Father Hurney's work in starting the "Catholic Radio Hour" and his interest in veterans. Father Hurney was a Navy chaplain in World War I.

The veterans were led by Commander Frederick J. Morthorst, sr., who had as his aide his son, Frederick J. Morthorst, jr. Among the veterans was 83-year-old William A. Hickey, oldest Catholic war veteran in Washington. Hickey, who fought in the Spanish-American War, has been invited ot take part in the fiftieth anniversary of Cuban independence in Havana in May 1948.

Timonium Stock Show Prizes Total $35,000

Baltimore, Sept. 28 (AP).—The 1947 Eastern National Livestock Show, opening at the Timonium fair grounds November 17 for a three-day stand, will decide winners of $35,000 in cash prizes, show President Richard C. Riggs announced.

Jews Begin Harvest Feast Of Sukkoth

The festival celebrates the ancient custom of Jewish folk dwelling in thatched booths during the gathering of the harvest in the Holy Land.

Jewish families last night erected booths in their homes, and held services of thanks for the blessings of the season. There will be further services today centered around booths built outside synagogues. The booths are adorned with fruits, vegetables, flowers and other articles.

The Pilgrim Fathers were said to have been so impressed with the Sukkoth festival that they were inspired to inaugurate our Thanksgiving Day celebration.

According to the Book of Deuteronomy, Sukkoth was one of the three festivals (the others are Passover and Pentecost) where Jews were required to make a holy pilgrimage to Jerusalem.

Two others in the truck—28-year-old Watha C. Rice, father of the child victim, and 15-year-old John White—were taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital at Pearisburg where doctors said White's condition was critical tonight.

Hobert White, who police said was driving the truck, was instantly killed and the 4-year-old Rice boy died a few minutes after he was brought to the hospital.

C. of C. Acquires Manassas Civil War Landmark

Manassas, Va., Sept. 28 (Spl.).—The old Dogan House, famous landmark in the Civil War, has been taken over by the Prince William County Chamber of Commerce, which will repair it before donating it to the National Park Service as part of the Manassas National Battlefield Park.

The log and stone structure, situated at the intersection of Lee hwy. and the Groveton-Sudley rd., was built early in the nineteenth century. On August 29-30, 1862, it was in the center of the fighting at Manassas and changed hands several times.

A local tradition persists that Generals Lee and Longstreet ate breakfast in the house on the last day of the second battle.

Fair Opens Tomorrow At Frederick

Frederick, Md., Sept. 28 (Spl.).—Only fair weather is needed to assure the success of the 85th annual Great Frederick Fair, which opens here Tuesday, officials declared today.

Entries in most departments of the agricultural exhibition are said to be far in excess of previous years; more than 145 contestants have entered the harness races, and all concession space in the exhibition halls has been sold.

The fair, conducted by the Frederick County Agricultural Society, has been allotted $10,000 by the Maryland State Fair Board, to be awarded as premiums in the 13 departments and contests scheduled.

Runs Through Friday

The fair will continue for four days and four nights, through Friday. On Tuesday, Children's Day, youngsters under 10 will be admitted free.

Gov. William Preston Lane, jr., who has accepted an invitation to attend on Wednesday, Governor's Day, will present awards from the grandstand. Thursday has been designated Farmers' Day in honor of members of the county Farm Bureau, county Grances and the Women's Clubs of Frederick County.

Guy K. Motter, society secretary, said the influx of entries for the cattle department has made it doubtful whether all stock can be accommodated in the show stalls available, despite the use of two new barns erected this year.

21 Classes of Cattle

The cattle judging, which opens at 10 a. m. on Tuesday and Wednesday, will provide premiums for 21 classes and four breeds of registered dairy cattle and a number of premiums for each of two breeds of beef cattle. Individual premiums range up to $25. Besides the awards in the cattle classes, premiums are offered for herdsmen with the best arranged, neatest and cleanest exhibits.

Races over the four days will divide a total of $6800 in stakes. Twelve classes in the horse department will be judged beginning at 9 a. m. on Tuesday and Wednesday. Other traditional competitions will be conducted in the sheep, swine, 4-H, poultry, farm and garden, pomological, household and art departments as well as the vocational students' Statewide judging contest.

Following completion of judging during the first two days of the fair, the annual cavalcade of prize livestock will be staged on Thursday and Friday on the race track in front of the grandstand.

J. H. Wright, Latin Affairs Expert, Dies

James H. Wright, 40, director of the State Department's Office of American Republic Affairs, died yesterday in a Kansas City hospital, the State Department was notified last night.

The Latin-American Affairs specialist had contracted an obscure tropical disease while serving in Cuba in 1946, which aggravated an anemic condition. He had been ill for about a year.

He was en route with his wife from Washington to his home in Chillicothe, Mo., when he collapsed on the train on Friday near Kansas City, where he was taken to a hospital.

Well Known By Diplomats

A resident of the Broadmoor Apartments since he returned here in 1946 from his assignment as counsellor in the embassy at Havana, he was well known among Latin-American diplomats here.

During the recent inter-American defense conference in Rio de Janeiro, he was the ranking United States official in Washington for Latin-American affairs.

Mr. Wright had made his first and only speech while director of the Office of American Republic Affairs on September 18, when he addressed the first Hemisphere Stock Exchange conference in New York on the subject of international monetary exchange in the Western Hemisphere.

He began his State Department career in 1930, when he studied at the Foreign Service School there and became vice consul at Vera Cruz, Mexico. He later served as vice consul in Cologne, Germany and at Bogota, Colombia, where he became consul in 1938-40.

Did Liaison Work

After returning to the State Department here in 1940, he was assigned to the Office of American Republic Affairs in 1943, and the following year became chief of the Division of North and West Coast Affairs. He then did liaison work with the U. N. Monetary and Financial Conference at Bretton Woods, N. H., and was a political adviser for the Montreal meeting of UNRRA the same year.

Following other special assignments and a year in Havana, he became special assistant to Assistant Secretary of State Spruille Braden in 1946. When Braden resigned and Ellis O. Briggs relinquished the post of director of the Office of American Republic Affairs to become Ambassador to Uruguay, Mr. Wright was appointed director.

Funeral services are expected to be held tomorrow in Chillicothe. Besides his wife, Mrs. Mildred Beane Wright, he leaves his mother, two sisters and two aunts, all of Kansas City.

Miss Fannie Yowell

Surviving are her sisters, Miss Adella Yowell, with whom she made her home, and Mrs. E. Hawes Lipscomb of Richmond, and five brothers, John W. and Chilton W. of Culpeper; Ernest, Philip and Thomas O., jr., of Charlottesville.

Board Survey Brings Plan On Pollution

By Richard L. Lyons
Post Reporter

The Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin yesterday concluded a three-day inspection tour of Chesapeake Bay and outlined a program for cleaning up the Potomac in the Greater Washington area.

The executive committee met in closed session. Engineer Secretary Edwin R. Cotton said members "discussed pollution control problems in the Washington metropolitan area and formulated a general program for future action."

Cotton said the urgency of action in this area may cause a shift in the December business meeting from Harrisburg, Pa., to Washington.

Map Shows Pollution.

A water purity map drawn up by the commission last year shows the most heavily polluted parts of the Potomac to be (1) the Luke-Cumberland industrial region in western Maryland, and (2) the Washington area from Chain Bridge south to Fort Washington. None of this water is considered fit for drinking even after treatment, according to the commission.

Recent congressional action provided for the enlargement of Washington sewage treatment facilities, so that ultimately 70 per cent of the pollution may be removed from the sewage.

This would leave the fast growing northern Virginia communities—Alexandria, Arlington and Fairfax—as the chief contributors to river pollution here. That area, with a population near 275,000, now drains its sewage and industrial wastes into the river in a rew or only slightly treated state.

Progress In Cumberland

In the other danger spot, around Cumberland, the commission feels it has made considerable progress in eliminating pollution caused by industrial waste. It has done this by interesting industry in cleaning its own house.

The commission has no police powers; it can act only as an adviser on the problem of river pollution to States, municipalities or private firms. One of its many committees consists of industrial officials who have stopped pollution from their own plants and are selling the idea to others.

A similar committee for municipalities came into being at the last business meeting at Staunton.

The city of Cumberland still dumps its raw sewage into the river, the commission said. The area remains badly polluted, particularly in the dry months, it was reported. The commission pins its hopes there largely on the completion of the Savage River Dam, which lies west of the Cumberland area.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our son and grandson, Henry Holder Milling, jr., who passed away 4 years ago today, September 29, 1943.
Just when life was sweetest
And you could have lived your best,
The gates of Heaven opened
And God took you home to rest.

Country Birthday Party Given for Roy St. Lewis

Rancho Mio, Mr. and Mrs. Roy St. Lewis' country place in Maryland was transformed into a country fair yesterday to celebrate Mr. St. Lewis' birthday anniversary.

Peggy St. Lewis had been working since morning yesterday, with the help of a dozen friends, twining red, white and blue bunting around booths, staking out a course for the potato and sack races and seeing to it that everything was in readiness when the first guests arrived at 3 p. m.

From then on until, well, late last night there was something doing every minute. There dancing on an outdoor pavilion; South American dances by Senora de Huertematte, wife of the Commercial Counselor of the Panama Embassy; tap dancing by Diana Hatch, daughter of the hostess, and Betty Baker, one of the Baker twins. B. Charles-Dean, well-known British producer, charmed the guests with his piano playing and songs.

Prizes were given for the races, the husband-calling contest and for the best country costume worn by masculine and feminine guests.

Mrs. Ridgeway Macy and her daughter, Sonia, were helping at a hot-dog booth; Warren L. Stephenson took care of parking arrangements, while Mrs. Stephenson took care of a hamburger stand. Mrs. Joseph Mauldin was there to lend a hand at any of half a dozen tasks.

One of the most popular couples among the 200 guests were Vasco Garin, former Counselor of the Portuguese Embassy here, and Mme. Garin, who were only in town for the day. Mr. Garin is on his way to Ottawa where he has been appointed Minister-Counselor of his embassy there.

Their guests will be Senorita Hilda Vallarino, Senorita Elena Ivanissevich, Miss Nora Martins, Miss Marjory Rhett, Miss Tina Murdock, Mrs. Wayne Kittelle, Miss Edwina Wadden, Miss Emily Arnold, Miss Betty Arnold, Mrs. J. Franklin Wilkin, Miss Betty Burton, Miss Eleanor Burton, Senorita Anita Baraibar, Senorita Teresa Baraibar, Miss Anne Gillespie, Miss Ann Distler, Miss Romona North, Miss Susan Pendleton Grove and Miss Monica Gaillard.

Mr. and Mrs. August Maffry entertained at cocktails Saturday afternoon at their apartment on Bancroft pl. in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Hal B. Lary. Mr. Lary will sail with his family on the Queen Mary on October 20 for an assignment in Geneva with the European Economic Commission.

Among those in the group were Mr. and Mrs. William McChesney Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert E. Gaston, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence E. Gauss, Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Stambaugh, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Chatfield-Taylor and Dr. and Mrs. Amos Taylor.

Invitations have been issued by the Turkish Ambassador, Huseyin Ragip Baydur, for a reception on Thursday, October 9, from 6 to 8, to meet Gen. Salih Omurtak, chief of the General Staff.

The visitor heads a distinguished military group expected to arrive in Washington from Turkey on October 5, and will spend a week here.

The Chinese Ambassador, Wellington Koo, has cards out in honor of the Chinese Minister of Foreign Affairs for a cocktail party on Wednesday at the embassy from 5:30 to 7 o'clock.

---

Girl, 26, a Successful Business Woman, Finds Her Parents' Doting Supervision Of Her Private Life Almost Unbearable

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am a girl 26, an only child. I have had an excellent education and am doing very well in the business world. Yet my parents continue to watch over me as if I were still a child. Lately this has become almost unbearable and is affecting my work and general disposition.

Perhaps I sound cold hearted; but I do love my parents dearly; in fact, perhaps more devotedly than is usually the case in families of several children. But I'm quite sure I can take care of myself and I've been brought up so that I know I won't ever do anything to be ashamed of—so for the life of me I can't understand why they don't trust me.

Perhaps I shouldn't say "trust" me. They say they do trust me; but they expect me to tell them practically every move I make and what I think; and they seem not to want me out of their sight. They've always thought I should take my vacations with them and are very hurt if I suggest otherwise.

This year I compromised on two short trips, one with them and another alone to visit friends of mine. Only twice previously have I been away from home without them,—on short trips with girl friends, after much coaxing.

Can Independence Be Amiably Won?

ALSO, concerning young men I date or especially like, if things begin to look serious and the man is from another city, my parents always say, "Now you'll marry and leave us and go far away; so far that we'll never see you again." In view of modern rapid transportation that seems illogical.

Moreover, they've always been deeply devoted to each other and still are, hence if marriage took me far away they still would have each other, so I don't see why they should argue that melancholy viewpoint. What worries me is the realization that I probably will outlive them and if I don't learn to stand on my own feet and take care of myself now, it certainly will be a bad situation in later years when I must do without them.

Yet how can I begin to develop self reliance without seeming ungrateful and selfish? I've thought of taking a position in another city as the possible solution, provided I can persuade them to let me go. But I've held off broaching this, except for a hint now and then which gets them so excited and upset that I drop the subject.

Anyway, I know what their reaction would be. They'd want to know why I'm not happy at home; and they'd say I don't appreciate all they've done for me. Yet when I try to do things for myself, they fuss and tell me not to bother. I am very confused and would appreciate your impartial advice on what course to take. D. P.

Heading for Future "Bound in Shallows"

DEAR D. P.: Still tied to your parents' apron strings at 26, you are well on the way to being an old maid, the victim of their "smother" love. Your rising tide of rebellion against this state of affairs is fully justified and brings to mind an observation of Shakespeare's.

"There is a tide in the affairs of men," said he, "which taken at the flood, leads on to fortune: Omitted, all the voyage of their life is bound in shallows and in miseries."

Your future is being shaped now. And whether it is to be comparatively full and good or bound in shallows and miseries depends upon whether you soon break away from the prison-house of home, or linger on indefinitely, trying to oblige your parents' narrow selfish concept of filial devotion owed them for so long as they both shall live.

From my viewpoint, the time to cut and run is now,—now while they still have each other, a condition which certainly entitles you to launch your own canoe with easy conscience, no matter how grievously they may cavil about it.

To Escape, She Must Run Gantlet

"KNOW the truth," it is said, "and the truth shall make you free." The truth about this situation is that you can't develop self reliance or escape to an adult-type life of your own without running the gantlet of their hysterical laments and recriminations.

In trying desperately to hang on to you, they are indirectly confessing their personal failure to develop mature personality and intelligently cultivate and industriously pursue a normal variety of mature-age social interests.

When, as and if you announce your decision to shove off, they're going to put up an unfair fight to block your going. Your rising tide of rebellion must be at the flood, ready to conquer all obstacles when the test comes. To win out, you'll have to be emotionally tough and sure of your ultimate goal as well as your moral right to go after it,—namely, the goal of mature independent character forged by self reliant endeavor. M. H.

Ask Anne — Your Questions on Homemaking

I have a set of dinnerware purchased some 20 years ago. It is the Cadore pattern by the W. H. Grindley Co., of England. I wonder if any readers of "Ask Anne" have some of this china they would like to sell? M. M. N.

Anyone with extra pieces of Cadore she wishes to dispose of may write this column.

Many thanks to A. D. D., L. L., and E. T., all of whom sent in similar recipes for "Sunny Silver" pie, in response to R. F.'s request for "Sunshine Silver" pie. One of the recipes follows:

½ cup cold water
1 tablespoon gelatine
2 or 3 tablespoons lemon juice
4 eggs
Grated rind ½ lemon
1 cup sugar
1 cup whipping cream
Few grains salt

Soak gelatine in water. Break egg yolks in lemon juice, rind, and ½ cup sugar in double boiler. Whip with egg beater until firm and creamy. Then turn down heat, fold in gelatine, and let cool. Beat egg whites very stiff and add remaining sugar, then add to yolk mixture. Pour into a large baked pie shell and let set for at least 2 hours. Serve with whipped cream.

The leatherette upholstery on my baby's highchair is badly worn. Could I use paint suitable for canvas to brighten it up? If not, have you any suggestions for refurbishing it?

P. S.

One of the local paint stores carries a plastic leather coating for use in restoring leatherette. For further information, telephone District 1130.

To S.W.: If you'll let me know what type of satin is on the gray wool, I'll be better able to advise you.

Back in 1935, I purchased a Duncan Phyfe sofa from the old Dulin Furniture Co. here. It's upholstered in material with a black background with scattered flowers in delicate shades of rose, gold and green. I'm very anxious to get a piece of this material but cannot find it anywhere in town. I wondered if any of your readers have a sofa of this material they're planning to recover. I'd like to buy any of the good parts of their covering if they would sell them. This was a very popular sofa at the time and there must be a number of them in homes around Washington. B. M. B.

How about it, readers? Does your sofa meet this description and are you planning to recover it? If so, let this department know and we'll pass the word along to B. M. B.

1. How can I get a green satin finish on my record cabinet? It now has several coats of paint. Will it be necessary to remove the old paint?

2. My mahogany table needs refinishing in a few places. Could that be done without refinishing the whole thing? If not, how can I refinish it completely?

1. If by a green satin finish you mean a smooth, shiny green surface, this can be achieved with enamel. It isn't necessary to remove the old paint to apply it. Just sand lightly to take the gloss off the old surface. After the enamel dries thoroughly, it can be waxed to give it an even more satiny finish.

2. It's not practical to do a patch job on furniture finishes, except in the case of minor blemishes. However, you can refinish separate parts of the table—the top, for instance, or a leg. Here you run the risk of not having the finishes exactly match.

Some experts advise the following refinishing process for mahogany of natural color and beauty: Remove old finish with paint and varnish remover, following directions on can. Wipe off with cloth dampened with denatured alcohol to neutralize remover and take off last traces of old finish. Sand with medium to fine sandpaper until wood is perfectly smooth to touch, rubbing with grain. Prepare oil mixture by heating two parts boiled linseed oil and one part turpentine in double boiler. Keep hot while working, using cold only on carved or grooved surfaces. Apply with soft lintless cloth, rubbing into wood all it can absorb. This may take five to 20 minutes. Wipe off all excess oil with fresh cloth. Polish 10 to 20 minutes with polishing cloth or heavy coarse linen or woolen. Let stand two days at least, then repeat the oiling and polishing. Let stand at least a week and repeat. Five to 12 coats are needed to bring out a fine luster. At least a week should elapse between all coats but the first and second, for each coat must be thoroughly soaked in before another is applied.

Exercise Molds Lovely Legs; Skirts at Half-Calf Help, Too

By Ida Jean Kain

FROM the hubbub over hemlines, you'd think skirts were lowered right smack down to the chewing gum on the sidewalks! Actually they're thirteen or fourteen inches from the floor.

A skirt that covers half of the calf is more flattering to the average figure, indeed to the average pair of legs. Of course some girls have a couple of pretty good reasons to resent longer skirts, but just between you and me and a pair of dark sheers, it's a slim percentage of women have perfect legs.

Pretty Legs Are Rare

Dance Director Jack Cole, of Columbia Pictures, who modestly claims the movie chorus girls have lovelier legs than those displayed by their dancing sisters in Broadway shows, confesses that even in Hollywood, the land of glamour gams, he had to interview 520 girls before he could find 40 who had legs that were fit to be photographed. It seems the camera shows up the slightest flaw. Well, so do knee-length skirts!

There's obvious evidence that skirts should come down. How far seems to be the question. To the most flattering length for you is the right answer. Half the calf is usually right, but on some short girls a skirt that just covers the turn of the calf is better proportioned and prettier.

For the Long Look

But the girls who hold out for chopped-off skirts will throw the silhouette out of balance. Everything is planned for the long look, with skirts at half the calf to give an enticing glimpse of the curve, which, many men agree, is far more provocative than a bold display.

But fashion aside, the reason the average pair of legs, in the movies or out, are not all they should be for short, short skirts is lack of exercise. There is no sidestepping the fact that stocky or skinny legs run in families, but the tendency is greatly aggravated by too much or too little weight, and certainly by poor muscle tone.

Well anyway girls, those who object to exercise should not object to lowered hemlines.

Xmas Plans In Discussion

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Salvation Army will have its first Christmas planning luncheon of the year at the Evangeline Residence, 1330 L st. nw. at 12:30 today, according to an announcement by Lieut. Col. W. W. Bouterse, head of the organization's women's activities. Guests representing several of Washington's social and civic clubs are planning to be present.

Christmas may seem several months away, however, the auxiliary ladies have a full agenda of hard work preparing to successfully handle their assignments and particularly the doll dressing project. Mrs. Bouterse will tell her colleagues that the Army has set as part of its Christmas goal the distribution of at least 1000 dolls to the children of Washington's needy families. The dolls are at the organization's headquarters, but minus the necessary wearing apparel, the first project of the auxiliary will be to undertake doll dressmaking.

Mrs. Bouterse points out that due to the magnitude of the job a cordial invitation is extended to all women's groups to participate.

Russia Seen Dropping Mask Of Friendship Toward U. S.

By Drew Pearson

The British Secret Service, recognized as one of the most efficient in the world, has just submitted a confidential and highly important report to the British Foreign Office regarding the inner debates of the Soviet Politburo—the 14-man council which really rules Russia.

This British report indicates that the Soviet Union has just made a historic decision, namely to give up all pretense of friendship with the United States.

The report, which goes into detail regarding the new Soviet policy, also reveals:

1. That Stalin apparently was reluctant to go along with the change toward the USA but was overruled.

2. That Russia will now intensively woo the Arabs, using the partition of Palestine as a weapon to strengthen Russia's position in the oil-rich Near East.

Stalin

3. That Russian strategy in Europe will be to defeat the Marshall Plan and create as much European chaos as possible.

This column has been able to obtain a copy of the confidential British report, and because of its great importance to the American public, publishes herewith a summary of its most pertinent parts. In order to prevent disclosure of secret diplomatic codes, the text has been partially paraphrased. It follows:

Friendship Written Off

"The Soviet authorities have now reached several decisive decisions, following an extended series of plenums of the Political Bureau in August and September.

"It has now been decided by the policy makers that the United States is to be written off as a possible friendly power.

"The Soviet government has decided that only the coldest type of formal diplomatic relations will be continued between Moscow and Washington. These relations will be purely pro forma. No further expensive or lavish efforts will be undertaken to influence American public opinion.

"Propaganda efforts will be directed solely at using the United States as a sample of the evil influence of a 'resurgent American imperialism,' to be used, according to the new theme for all Russian opinion-making efforts.

"The Russian leadership has decided to concentrate its forces in the labor movements of western Europe in order to consolidate the entire continent (of Europe) under Moscow domination. The threat of atomic war from the United States is to be used as a fear propaganda weapon designed to keep the peoples of western Europe too tensed to adequately perform their daily task on an efficient, planned long-range basis.

"A combination of economic chaos, political confusion and psychological fear is judged by the Kremlin as the proper recipe for successfully conquering Europe without direct use of armed force in the next 12 months.

Wooing the Arabs

"It is judged likely that the Soviet government will now make increased impassioned efforts to develop new and stronger ties with the Arab nations of the Middle East. This will be done through negotiation by Soviet diplomats and secret agents traveling through Lebanon; Syria, Egypt, Saudi Arabia, Afghanistan, Iran and Iraq. Russian diplomats at the United Nations will conform with this pattern in negotiations concerning Palestine.

"Our informants report that at the recent Kremlin conversations only slight objections were encountered to the new strategy and tactics outlined by Molotov. Josef Stalin is reported to have reluctantly assented to the new position. Vishinsky, the Acting Chief Soviet Delegate to the United Nations, did not participate in the talks. He is not a member of the Political Bureau.

"The so-called Marshall Plan advanced by the United States figured strongly in the discussion. Molotov and Laurenti Beria explained their positions in effect as follows:

"If the sixteen powers who have joined in the Marshall Plan are permitted to wrestle with their problems alone, inevitable contradictions of capitalism will prevent their unity. However, it was pointed out, that if the 16 powers were joined in the Marshall Plan by the Soviet group of nations, they would be able to abandon their differences, thus establishing a unity against the Soviet powers which might make the Marshall Plan succeed.

Sees Fund Denial

"Molotov, in his report, said his information indicated that the American Congress would never vote billions for a Marshall Plan. He believes, he said, that America is on the road back to isolation and would not back a powerful anti-Russian coalition with cash and weapons if the people of the United States felt war was a possible outcome.

"The Soviet Minister for Foreign Affairs also held the view that his government's propaganda efforts would be far superior to that of the American group throughout the world.

"It was also agreed in the conversations that Stalin is to refrain from making any further optimistic speeches or gestures toward the United States as has been his habit since the end of the last great conflict. Thus the decision implies a united Soviet policy of vigorously pursuing its dynamic offensive for a Communist Europe on a united, determined basis.

"Soviet government hopes Togliatti in Italy and Thorez in France will be able to force Communist re-entry into present governments, preferably in high policy-making positions so as to enable them to control use of Marshall Plan funds. By this, the Russians hope to be able to intimidate the American Congress into withholding funds from governments which contain powerful Communist representation.

"Russia wants Belgian Communists to step up propaganda against Belgian-American uranium agreements which give the United States a monopoly on uranium ore from the Belgian Congo.

"The Politburo proposes to concentrate its anti-British fire on Bevin and Churchill, but keep up appearance of utmost friendship for the British people, being careful not to offend the United Kingdom in any way."

A Blithe 'Adventuress'

British Spy Yarn In Best Tradition

By Richard L. Coe

"THE ADVENTURESS," at the Hippodrome, is one of those witty spy pictures the British do so well, an honorable descendant of "Night Train" and "The Lady Vanishes."

Which isn't surprising, since Frank Launder and Sidney Gilliat wrote and directed all three. The remarkable thing is that the boys have managed to pull it all off again. And in the title role, Deborah Kerr gives them a pack of help.

It has been their bright idea to make their adventuress an Irish patriot on whose young, impressionable mind her father's boastings about the "troubles" of 1916 in Dublin has had far-reaching effects. As if setting a trend, their heroine, Bridie, hates the British. On her twenty-first birthday, in 1944, she determines to tackle the enemy herself.

This she manages by getting mixed up with a Nazi spy ring, without giving much thought t othe consequences. She rather enjoys the job at first, for on her initial night in England she dumps some paint on a statue of Oliver Cromwell, whose existence everyone else had apparently forgotten.

Her stand against the wartime British includes taking a job in a small inn and finding out what she can about a military prisoner. She easily does so by making friends with military personnel. When her boss is shot, she carries on as his dying words directed, winding up with invasion plans on the Isle of Man.

There's no point in going further into Bridie's adventures, for their improbabilities will hardly tempt you. The film is amusing in how it's told; the frightening task of doing away with the Nazi's body so there will be no questions asked about him; the near blunders of authorities who almost but never quite catch wise to what she's doing; the sly digs at the Irish and border smuggling between the two Irelands.

As they were in "Night Train" and "The Lady Vanishes," some of the best Launder-Gilliat scenes are on moving trains. One you'll particularly like is a crowded compartment, one occupant of which is another spy Bridie is to meet. But which one? Bridie's bewilderment equals your own. It's a deliciously amusing scene.

There are other neatly wry observations on British muddleheadedness, not only of a bumbling intelligence captain, but also of the efficient prison guards who, for all their military correctness almost, but don't quite, lose their quarry. You'll also find a British reaction to ourselves, the full-living, gum-chewing Yanks. For all its sharpness, it's a bemused, admiring glance.

Delightful Deborah

There is, too, an economy of narrative that's admirable. Scenes which you might expect to see are pointedly left out but instead of being missed, the yarn spins along all the faster.

Miss Kerr's brogue, anger, dawning awareness and charming femininity are all delightful. Her boy friend—an artillery captain—is acted with just the right light touch by Trevor Howard, who was so fine as Celia Johnson's unhappy lover in "Brief Encounter." The supporting character players are excellent.

Yes, you'll enjoy "The Adventuress."

THIS IS THE week "Lady Windermere's Fan" goes it alone without the Theater Guild-ATS subscription folk at the National. . . . Subscriptions are now available in the group's office on the National mezzanine for the five remaining plays in the series. . . . But without the half sold-out houses that the subscription policy guarantees. The comedy is doing lusty trade. . . . Some of that trade, as Cornelia Otis Skinner was saying the other day, comes from ladies curious about fashions of the Mauve Decade. . . . Such fashions, Miss S. remarks, would be incongruous in the world of today, where women run to catch streetcars and buses and she doubts if such styles ever will be revived.

CTC Streetcar Passes May Honor 48 States Next Year

Washington's streetcar passes—pasteboards with personality—may honor the 48 States next year.

But that's no tip to counterfeiters, who'd starve to death in the pass business for lack of the uncanny ingenuity required to think them up.

Capital Transit's $1.50 ducats are probably the only ones in the transportation world intended to appeal to the rider's esthetic sense, nurture his art appreciation, prod his civic curiosity and give him unlimited riding for a week.

Planned Far Ahead

Usually five months ahead on ideas and three months ahead in production, Capital Transit's idea men are already mulling over the 1948 series of 52 or 53. "We may use the State flowers—it's one of the ideas we have," one official said yesterday.

Since 1933, when the company began using passes, they have not only baffled counterfeiters, but tickled the public's curiosity. One counterfeiter had an idea during the first year, but apparently discarded it for lack of funds. Two years ago, a lone operator tried to draw a passable reproduction of a pass and was caught on his first sneak ride.

It takes 52 or 53 ideas a year and a careful selection of colors to produce the 6,500,000 passes printed for the company in Philadelphia and few people in Washington know one week in advance what the next week's pass will be—except $1.50.

Galleries Furnish Ideas

The city's art galleries have supplied many a thought—the current series for example. No. 39 carried William McGregor's "The House Maid" and below it was the pertinent notation ". . . on exhibit at the Corcoran Gallery of Art."

"We try to make them so they will be neither repugnant to the eye nor the esthetic sense," explained E. Cleveland Giddings, vice president of the company and one-time New York newspaperman.

With F. T. Caldwell, his assistant, Giddings has about the last word in pass design and color selection.

They select the illustrations and the printing firm's artists suggest design and color. Then the suggestions go back to Capital Transit for possible changes or final approval.

The finished products go into circulation at the rate of about 125,000 a week; usually wind up in wastebaskets or on streetcar floors.

Washington Critics Applaud 'Verdoux' As Daring Chaplin Winner

"A BOLD, BRILLIANT AND BITTERLY AMUSING FILM . . . PROOF TO CHAPLIN'S MOVIE MASTERY. IT IS CERTAINLY ONE OF THE FEW HOLLYWOOD PICTURES OF RECENT YEARS THAT WILL SET PEOPLE THINKING AND ARGUING. 'MONSIEUR VERDOUX' IS GREAT IN ITS AIM AND ORIGINAL IN ITS FIELD."
Mr. Richard L. Coe, The Washington Post

"IT IS MOST HILARIOUS WHEN IT IS CRUELEST. IT IS A BRILLIANT FILM, BOLDLY CONCEIVED. 'MONSIEUR VERDOUX' WILL GIVE YOU MORE TO THINK ABOUT THAN ALL THE OTHER FILMS OF THE YEAR COMBINED."
Mr. Tom Donnelly, The Washington Daily News

"IT IS A PHENOMENON NO ONE WHO KEEPS UP WITH MOVIES-IN-OUR-TIME CAN AFFORD TO MISS . . . A MELODRAMA IN SLAPSTICK . . . SUPERBLY FUNNY MOMENTS."
Mr. Don Craig, The Washington Times-Herald

"CHAPLIN'S CLOWN WEARS A MASK OF TRAGEDY . . . ARRESTING AND DRAMATIC. IT MAKES MURDER IRONICALLY FUNNY."
Mr. Jay Carmody, The Washington Evening Star

Landis Wants Apology From Mayor in Ohio

Civil Aeronautics Board Chairman James M. Landis demanded an apology yesterday from Mayor James A. Rhodes, of Columbus, Ohio, for a letter questioning Landis' motives in awarding airline franchises.

Rhodes' letter was highly critical of a CAB decision on air franchises in the Great Lakes region which awarded additional stops to Transworld Airlines instead of two independent "feeders."

The letter contended that Columbus and Central Ohio citizens were "astonished and indignant" over the decision. It included the statement:

"You have managed to piece together a decision which protects and extends the monopoly of TWA in the area . . .

". . . the question naturally is asked, based upon current rumors, are you to become an executive of this airline when your board term expires in November?"

Landis charged in reply that the mayor's letter "far exceeds the bounds of fair comment upon official acts." He added:

"In your suggestion that I allow personal considerations to influence me, your statement is definitely untrue.

"More than that, it is libelous and an apology is due from you, particularly in view of your claim that you speak in behalf of the citizens of Columbus."

Mayor Won't Apologize, Reiterates Contention

Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 27 (INS).—Mayor James A. Rhodes of Columbus declined today to give an apology demanded by Civil Aeronautics Board Chairman James M. Landis.

On the contrary, the Mayor reiterated his contention that Landis owes an apology to Central Ohioans for what he described as "high-handed, unjust discrimination and deliberate insult he has given to the city of Columbus and its citizens."

Dominicans Are Prepared For Invasion

Ciudad Trujillo, Dominican Republic, Sept. 27 (AP).—The Dominican Republic, which for two months has been insisting it is threatened by an armed Communist invasion, announced today it is in readiness to do battle in the air and on the sea.

President Trujillo's secretary, Telesforo R. Calderon, issued a new statement today, once again asserting that some 1500 armed men from Latin-American countries are poised in Cuba for the attack. (Cuban government leaders have said the Dominican reports are fantastic.)

"The Dominican navy and air forces," said Calderon's statement, "patrol constantly, day and night some time ago, the waters and skies of Cuba, but with no limitation of land or water in a foreign jurisdiction, with intent to oppose the members of the international brigade who are training in Cuban territory against the Dominican Republic.

"In the Communist international brigade there are only 130 Dominicans. The others, 1500 strong, are Cubans, Venezuelans, Hondurans, Guatemalans, Chileans and from other nationalities. The aviation and the navy have orders to fight it out wherever they may find the aggressors, without allowing them to land in Dominican territory."

Germans Get Jitters Over Army Tests

Frankfurt, Germany, Sept. 27 (AP).—United States military government sources said today attempts were being made to dissuade the Army from testing air raid sirens in American zone cities, because of German jitters.

The tests were planned in connection with United States troop exercises. The Army had broadcast that the Germans must halt all traffic and leave the streets when they heard the sirens—the same alarms that warned them Allied bombers were coming.

Rumors spread quickly. In Stuttgart repeated broadcasts of the order touched off tales of an impending new war, a subject Germans often discuss. Both in Stuttgart and Frankfurt many Germans were reported inspecting their cellars, packing emergency kits and spreading fabulous stories about the massing of troops.

An Army statement ascribed to Col. George S. Eyster, said the drill was "designed to prepare troops for a serious emergency." Military government authorities pointed out that nearly all air raid bunkers in Germany had been demolished in the demilitarization program. Headquarters then issued a substitute statement simply ordering Germans to quit streets at the alarm.

Rains Hurt Italy Crops

Milan, Sept. 27 (UP).—Provincial Agricultural headquarters estimated today that yesterday's violent storm which followed a steady three-day rainfall had caused $28,500,000 damage, mainly to crops, in northern Italy. Only one death resulted from the storm, which pounded a 100-mile arc from the Franch Riviera through Piedmont, Italy.

State Wants Transport

Sofia, Bulgaria, Sept. 27 (AP).—The railway minister today introduced a bill providing for state monopoly of all cars and automobile transport, with all cars and motor vehicles becoming state property, the newspaper Narod reported.

Lady Oakes' Home In Maine Looted

Bar Harbor, Me., Sept. 28 (AP).—The pretentious home of Lady Eunice Oakes, widow of the slain baronet, Sir Harry Oakes, was broken into early today. Two valuable watches and bric-a-brac were taken, but were recovered when a man was arrested shortly afterward.

Police Chief George Abbott said the man was identified as Charles F. Keefe, 23, of Waltham, Mass. He pleaded guilty to charges of breaking and entering and larceny and was held in $3000 bail for the grand jury.

Russians Sentenced For Losing Papers

Moscow, Sept. 28 (AP).—The prosecutor's office announced today that two Soviet officials had received sentences for losing important documents.

I. T. Yuzhanin, an engineer-economist, was sentenced by a military tribunal to four years in a labor camp. B. Grafti-nov, forwarding agent in a military unit, received five years.

The announcement said several other persons had been sentenced and investigations were continuing in other cases.

THE DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

International Incident?

I haven't been able to find Bill Foster to get all the details, because our Research Department doesn't have his address. But here's the gist of what happened.

Bill was asked to come to the Research Department at 1116 15th st. nw. He got mixed up, and thought it was 1115 16th st. nw.

Arriving on the scene, he wandered into 1125 16th st. nw. His knocking and ringing failed to rouse anybody, so Bill just poked forward through open doors, looking for some sign of life.

Eventually he flushed a small woman who seemed greatly excited, but spoke no English. Bill tried French, with no success.

As he was about to despair, a man appeared on the scene. The newcomer spoke rapidly to the woman in a foreign tongue, and then turned to the harried Foster. In stern but labored tones he inquired:

"And may I inquire, sir, what are you doing in the Soviet Embassy?"

COMIC BOOK COMA

An 11-year-old relative of mine appears to be developing into a minute man.

Every time his mother asks him to do something, he answers, "Okay, Mom—in just a minute."

PERSONAL NOTES

L. P. Woodward, 318 South Lee st., Alexandria, Va.: I, too, have used the phrase "remains to be seen." But not any more, if you guys are going to add: "At the morgue."

G. W. B., 2701 14th st. nw.: He has enough linen picture books now to go into the business.

ADD NAMES

DOLLARS FROM HEAVEN

Charles Stofberg (he's Commissioner Young's right hand man) is $2 richer today than he was yesterday.

Charlie was out for a stroll in the 2500 block of Brentwood rd. ne., when he noticed a strange sight ahead. A man was picking up dollar bills which were scattered along the ground.

Looking about him, Stofberg saw two bills in his own vicinity, so he joined in the golden harvest.

When the money had been recovered, Stofberg looked to the stranger for an explanation. But all he got was:

"I don't know how this dough got here, but it sure came in handy. I had six cents in my pocket."

Charlie stuffed the two bills into his wallet, and went whistling off to work.

THOUGHT FOR TODAY

R. C. M. of 1735 P st. nw. suggests: "Perhaps it might help in these troubled times if we'd give more attention to the Laws and the Prophets, and less to Profits and Loss.

ADD SIGNS

Jack Schlesinger of 3544 Brandywine st. observes that May's Restaurant, up near the Shoreham, has inadvertently changed its name.

The "y" in its sign is on the fritz.

BY THE WAY—

Did you remember to mail your suggestion for a name for our Weatherbird?

NO COACHING PLEASE

The local sporting fraternity is having a lot of fun with the question:

"Are you dissatisfied with the Redskins, or do you approve the Marshall Plan?

Two German Writers, Two Ideas

NEW YORK.—It was at the home of novelist Robert Nathan where the problem was exemplified—the problem for statesmen and ethnologists who, in dealing with the people of conquered nations treat them as a whole as if their hopes and political philosophies are all alike and can be measured with mathematical precision. . . .

In one corner of the room sat Irving Stone, the biographer, with Lion Feuchtwanger, who was saying, "I'm going home to Germany where the real culture can be found, and where I can write in my native beautiful language. You don't know how awful it can be here, with people constantly pounding a foreign language against your ear."

Across the room sat Mrs. Stone, the biographer's wife, with Thomas Mann, who was saying, "No matter what happens I'll never go back to Germany. My faith in Germany's ability to live peacefully has been destroyed. I've fallen in love with America and its young people. Their freedom of mind and of heart are the great hope of the world today."

Henry Noble Hall, the correspondent, is writing a book about the expected cure of his cancer of the hip and thyroid. Hall says he is the first to be successful with the new radioactive isotopes.

Adlai Stevenson is preparing his campaign for the United States senatorship against Senator Brooks of Illinois.

Mark Etheridge is at the Baptist Hospital in Louisville, being treated for an ailment he suffered in Greece.

Etheridge headed the U. N. Committee to study border disturbances there. . . . Enrico Caruso, jr., has abandoned his singing career. "I can't overcome the handicap of my name," he said, "and I'm too old now to change it."

Harry Carey, who died last week, had retired to his ranch at Saugus, Calif., where he busied himself in the village politics and helped elect a new slate of officials. "And what will you get out of it?" Carey was asked. He said: "With a different postmaster, it means that at last I'll be able to get my copies of The Nation on time." . . . In his late years Carey suddenly was flooded with movie offers. "I attribute it to the fact that I was a pallbearer at the funeral of an MGM executive," Carey explained. "Actually it was a mistake. When L. B. Mayer designated the pall-bearers he said: 'Get Carey.' He didn't mean me. He meant Carey Wilson."

David O. Selznick's curly hair has become so gray that his employes now refer to him as "Chinchilla-head" . . . Selznick's crew, incidentally, photographed the hurricane as it hit Gulfport, Miss. The scenes will be used as background shots when Jennifer Jones is shown being cast up on a beach in "Portrait of Jenny" . . .

Harvey Stone just completed an engagement at a gambling joint in Las Vegas. He reports that at breakfast one of the guests told the waiter: "Take these wheat cakes back. They're marked" . . .

When the Seminoles in Florida announced "No hurricane," John Ringling North said, "That's a sure sign," and immediately ordered storm preparations to be set up at the circus quarters in Sarasota.

Col. Douglas Glueckstein, managing director of the Lyons chain of restaurants in England—the largest in the empire—flew to New York this week and dined at the White Turkey Restaurant. When he sat down and was given a menu he drew a white sheet of paper and started to check the items on the paper against those on the menu. Col. Glueckstein explained: "Whenever I wanted to buy something in England and it was unobtainable, I systematically wrote it on this sheet. I plan to spend my time here cancelling off every one of these items."

A GREAT STORE IN THE NATION'S CAPITAL

S. Power Warren . . . consulting mining engineer . . . a professor at the Colorado School of Mines for 12 years . . . formerly associated with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation as consulting engineer . . . has been in Washington four and one-half years.

THE HECHT COMPANY SALUTES THE CITIZENS OF WASHINGTON WHOSE HOMES ARE IN

NEVADA . . . the sagebrush state

Nevada has the distinction of being the first of the inter-mountain States granted Statehood . . . she was asked to join the Union only a few years after her settlement. Nevada was rapidly populated on the discovery of unbelievable riches from the Comstock Lode, Tonapah and Goldfield . . . great reservoirs of precious metals. Her silver helped support the Nation's sagging economy after the Civil War. Mining is still her biggest industry, with copper the most abundant and lucrative ore . . . along with such rare and valuable minerals as tungsten, brucite and cinnabar. New discoveries are developing large potentialities in lead, zinc and silver. Prime stock cattle, pastured on the unfenced Nevada ranges, supply delectable thick, juicy steaks and roasts to warm the heart of any chef or housewife. Spring cattle round-ups and rodeos are exciting contests of cow-punching skill . . . staged by cowboys who can ride anything that eats hay or jumps a fence . . . and can also swing a fast and accurate lariat. Nevadans dwell in surroundings of scenic splendor . . . against the backdrop of the rugged Sierra Nevadas . . . extending unbroken for several hundred miles . . . with the irregularity of the ridge lines emphasized by peaks jutting far above the general contour. Nevada's cities are within easy range of metropolitan areas but retain the charm and individuality of small towns. We offer our thanks to the Hecht Company for this opportunity to tell the story of the history and glories of Nevada. Nevada, sixth State in the Nation in area . . . with one person per square mile . . . has plenty of room for all . . . and extends a welcoming hand to tourists. We invite you to visit our State . . . and enjoy the pristine beauty and the atmosphere of spaciousness and freedom.

S Power Warren

President, Nevada State Society

NEVADA . . . The Sagebrush State . . . entered the Union during the Civil War in 1864, only 14 years after the first settlers began to arrive. Her new constitution was telegraphed to Washington . . . a landmark in communications . . . and the State was born by proclamation of President Lincoln.

NEVADA . . . Where men struck it rich overnight . . . with wealth beyond dreams from the Comstock Lode . . . which has yielded over one billion dollars worth of ore . . . 600 million in gold and 500 million in silver. When the Lode was discovered in 1859, the population of that fabulous mining town, Virginia City, spurted from a few hundred to 30,000. Other rick strikes followed at Tonapah . . . Ely . . . Goldfield . . . Pioche . . . Beatty. Many of these mines are still yielding gold and silver ore. Today Nevada produces a tremendous variety of metallic and non-metallic minerals . . . with copper her leading mineral product . . . and lead . . . zinc . . . quicksilver . . . tungsten . . . gypsum . . . brucite magnesite. Also found are gem stones . . . wonderstone (used for cameos) . . . onyx . . . turquoise . . . opal.

NEVADA . . . Whose agriculture thrives through irrigation . . . produces wheat, barley, potatoes and melons. The bulk of her agricultural income is derived from grazing . . . white-faced cattle roam the wide open spaces . . . marked with their owners' brands for the seasonal round-ups. Sheep take first place in numbers, with 800,000 grazing on the far-flung ranges. Horses are bred for many purposes . . . thoroughbred racers . . . riding horses . . . draft animals . . . and select stock, such as Palominos.

NEVADA . . . Where the rodeos provide many an equestrian thrill. Cow punchers garbed in ten-gallon hats, high-heeled boots, and long spurs demonstrate their ability with steer roping . . . bull dogging . . . bronc busting . . . relay races . . . trick and fancy horseback riding . . . and calf roping and tying.

NEVADA . . . Home of Hoover Dam . . . the highest dam in the World . . . awe-inspiring spectacle of man's creative genius . . . harnessing the power of the Colorado River. The Navy's largest ammunition dump . . . the Hawthorne . . . lies beyond the Sierra Nevada Range at Walker Lake . . . in a land-locked Naval District.

NEVADA . . . State of majestic scenery . . . weird rock formations . . . jagged mountain ranges alternating with broad green valleys . . . canyons and draws wrinkle the flanks of the mountains . . . with deep blue lakes nestling in the high peaks. Nevada is one of the most comprehensive fields in the world for geological study . . . with the bottom and top of the earth's crust depicted in numerous rock layers. The desert, once known as the "Great American Desert," is covered with cacti and yucca . . . Spanish Bayonets . . . greasewood and mesquite . . . and the Joshua Tree.
